JACA REVOLT IN SPAIN CLAIMED CRUSHED

Steeg Cabinet of France Meets First Obstacle

AVIATION HEAD, ETTENE RICHE, HAS RESIGNED

BELIEVE THIS IS ONLY FIRST OF MANY TROUBLES FOR THE NEW PREMIER

NEW CABINET HOPES TO LINE UP 8 GROUPS IN CHAMBER BEHIND THEM

By RALPH HEINZEN (United Press Staff Correspondent) Paris, Dec. 13.—The cabinet formed by Theodore Steeg, former governor general of Morocco, encountered its first obstacle in the early hours of its political life today.

Steeg's ministry replacing that of Andre Tardieu, was scarcely complete when the new under-secretary of aviation, Etienne Riche, resigned.

"I accepted a portfolio with the understanding that the radicals had lifted their exclusion order against Tardieu and the republican-democratic union," Riche wrote the premier.

"I now find that was not true. Hence I do not desire to participate in the cabinet."

Politicians believed that Riche's resignation was only the first of many troubles Steeg would encounter before he leads his cabinet before the chamber of deputies, where a vote of confidence is considered doubtful.

Meanwhile Steeg and his supporters began a day of conferences hoping to line up the eight groups in the chamber of deputies behind them.

In addition to Steeg as premier and minister of colonies, the members of the new government are:

Interior—Georges Legu. Justice—Henri Cheron. War—Louis Barthou. Navy—Albert Sarraut.

Public instruction—Camille Chauvinet. Air—Paul Painleve.

Commerce—Louis Goucheur. Foreign affairs—Aristide Briand.

Finance—Germain Martin. Budget—Maurice Palmade.

Public works—Edouard Daladier. Agriculture—Victor Boret.

Merchant marine—Charles Danielou. Labor—Edouard Grinda.

Pensions—Robert Thomyre. Posts and telephones—Georges Bonnet.

Public health—Henri Queuille.

John R. Holmes and Dolores Salazar are Married at Las Vegas

Las Vegas, Nev., Dec. 13.—(U.P.)—John R. Holmes, 21, and Dolores Salazar, 22, both of Los Angeles, were married here yesterday by District Judge William Orr, it was learned today.

Miss Salazar gained publicity when she sued Ferdinand Pinney Earle for breach of promise, alleging that the artist took her to Mexico and Europe, and then refused to marry her. She was awarded a judgment of $17,000 in Los Angeles courts.

Earle denied Miss Salazar's charges, asserting that when she first saw him, she fell into his lap "like a ripe peach."

Holmes is said to be the son of the late Payton R. Holmes, Minneapolis flour magnate.

The couple was accompanied by another man and woman, the latter bearing a striking resemblance to Miss Salazar. They left shortly after the ceremony for Los Angeles.

Promise of Support of Widow and Children Appeals to Judge

Milwaukee, Dec. 13.—(U.P.)—James H. Radtke was saved from a five-year sentence in Waupun state prison today when he promised to support Mrs. Agnes Cyssa, widow, and her three small children. Radtke was tried on charges of manslaughter growing out of the death of Mrs. Cyssa's husband.

FASTS 5 DAYS TO AID THE JOBLESS

Detroit, Dec. 13.—(U.P.)—The city's unemployment relief fund was $5 richer today because H. A. Blum, father of five, fasted five days and donated the money he ordinarily would have spent for meals.

Distressed by the plight of the jobless, Blum decided the only way he could aid was through the novel fast and savings plan.

HEALY, TOMMANY CASE GOES TO JURY

New York, Dec. 13.—(U.P.)—The case of Martin J. Healy and Thomas Tommany, charged with furthering the appointment of former Magistrate George F. Ewald for a $10,000 consideration, was given to a supreme court jury today.

LAKE CARRIER TRADE CLOSES UP FOR THE WINTER

Calumet, Mich., Dec. 13.—(U.P.)—All lake carriers are believed off Lake Superior and lighthouse keepers on the western shore of Keweenaw point have been instructed to close up for the winter. Caretakers will remain in the lighthouse until spring.

NEIGHBORS SEEK FOR THE BODY OF MRS. A. E. HAVEN

LATTER DISAPPEARED MYSTERIOUSLY FROM WATFORD CITY, N. D.

NEW CLUES MAY CLEAR UP WHAT HAPPENED TO SIX MEMBERS OF FAMILY

Watford City, N. D., Dec. 13.—Neighbors of the Haven family which disappeared mysteriously ten months ago dug relentlessly into the supposed grave of Mrs. A. E. Haven today.

Additional information given by Charles Bannan, 22, farm hand who lived with the Havens, furnished the men with new clues which officials hope may clear up the mystery of what happened to the six members of the family.

Whether the grave of Mrs. Haven is discovered rests confirmation of a story of murder and burial of the family under the barn and in refuse piles while Bannan ran the farm for ten months. At first Bannan blamed Mrs. Haven for the killings, then he said the neighbors of the family had killed the six persons, finally he blamed a farmer near the Haven property and a stranger whose name he did not know.

The bodies of Haven and his children were discovered when Bannan directed officials to the graves on the farm.

Officials today continued their questioning of the farm hand in an effort to obtain the true story of his actions. They believe that most of the tales he has told were fabrications although he apparently broke down to tell them the truth last night when he said all six members of the family had been killed.

Workers, however, could not discover the body of Mrs. Haven in the spot Bannan mentioned. They returned this morning for a more complete examination of the location.

Bannan repeatedly protested that he had nothing to do with the killings and only assisted in burying the bodies. Officials are holding him pending the filing of definite charges when more extensive information is available.

Watford City, N. D., Dec. 13.—(U.P.)—Hammer blows apparently brought death to six members of the A. E. Haven family, searchers who continued to unearth portions of their decomposed bodies said today.

Preliminary examination of the more complete corpses which were found buried in a barn on the Haven farm showed crushed skulls. The blows probably were struck by a hammer, investigators said.

Complete bodies of Haven, his sons Daniel 19, Leland, 16, and Charles, 3, had been found today. A few bones and some hair had been uncovered which searchers believed were portions of the corpses of Mr. Haven and her six weeks old daughter.

Williston police continued to question Charles Bannan, 22, neighbor, who took over the Haven farm last February 10 after telling friends that the Havens had left for the Pacific coast.

They reported that his story of the killing of the Havens continued to vary.

A neighbor of the Havens was also brought to Williston when Bannan again changed his tale. Bannan said the neighbor and a stranger had killed the Haven family and forced him to help bury them.

Bannan told searchers that the body of Mrs. Haven and her infant would be found in the barn where the other corpses were located, but diggers today had been unable to locate the entire body.

A telegram was sent to police at Watertown, S. D., asking them to look for James Bannan, father of the man held at Williston. The Bannans occupied the adjoining farm at the time the Havens disappeared.

Police today revealed that the investigation of the killing was opened after George Lane, Portland, Ore., brother of Mrs. Haven, asked that a search be made.

Neighbors said that no interest had been aroused when the Havens disappeared last February. Bannan said at the time that he was farming the Haven property as a tenant.

First intimation that anything was wrong came when relatives of the Havens started suit against Bannan for embezzlement.

Another Dispute Added to Issues Which Aggravate Relations Between Hoover, Senate

PRESIDENT OBJECTS TO AMENDMENT MADE BY SENATE

REFERRED TO CHANGE IN EMERGENCY UNEMPLOYMENT BILL

By LYLE C. WILSON (United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, Dec. 13.—An agreement was reached by house and senate conferees today on the administration unemployment bill. They reduced the total appropriation from $118,000,000 to $116,000,000 and retained the flexible clause permitting President Hoover discretion in allocating funds.

The conferees eliminated the senate amendment by Democratic Floor Leader Robinson restricting the president's power in distributing the appropriation for constructing roads on public lands. The conference report must be passed upon by the house and senate.

Washington, Dec. 13.—Another dispute has been added to the issues aggravating relations between President Hoover and the senate. Minority Leader Robinson created this latest point of friction.

Mr. Hoover objects to an amendment made by the senate to the emergency unemployment bill. The change, suggested by Robinson and adopted unanimously without debate would prevent Mr. Hoover from disposing of the sum appropriated as he may desire.

The house sent the bill to the senate with a proviso that Mr. Hoover could transfer the sums appropriated in the bill from one purpose to any other and Robinson's objection to that was, in effect, a lump sum appropriation. Forthwith it was stricken from the bill.

Mr. Hoover today apparently contemplates the possibility of vetoing drought relief legislation if congress insists it shall appropriate $60,000,000. And he objects, although less sharply, to the senate's amendment of the unemployment measure. House republicans are resorting to every possible parliamentary maneuver to prevent the senate's $60,000,000 drought bill from reaching the floor for a vote.

It appears the house would support the bill despite Mr. Hoover's objections if a free expression of opinion were possible. The president wants to limit the appropriation to $25,000,000.

Practical politicians are pondering this suddenly risen storm which involves the president and leaders of both parties in the senate. The house is more amenable to party leadership and figures only slightly so far in the squabble.

Senator Fess, chairman of the republican national committee, spent nearly an hour at the White House last evening. He left insisting that he had discussed with the president the name of a successor to Col. U. S. Grant who is resigning from the Washington Centennial organization.

But the conference was prolonged. Mr. Hoover postponing for half an hour an appointment with his dentist to continue with Fess. It appears to be a fair inference that other matters were considered.

Heads Trans-Canada Air Rail Merger

James A. Richardson, of Winnipeg, has become a foremost figure in Canada's aviation activities by heading the trans-Canada air rail merger. The merger takes in principal airways in Canada from Halifax to Vancouver and both Canadian railroads, in addition to holding the great majority of the post-office air mail contracts from coast to coast.

TWO DULUTH FIRMS ARE INCORPORATED

St. Paul, Dec. 13.—(U.P.)—Incorporations of two Duluth firms were filed with Secretary of State Mike Holm today.

The Northern Drug Co., with $500,000 authorized capital, $200,000 to be used in Minnesota, filed copies of Delaware articles of incorporation. The firm will engage in wholesale and retail handling of drugs, with headquarters in Duluth and stores throughout the state.

The Hicks Tire Co., with $50,000 authorized capital, filed articles. Incorporators are three Akron, O., men.

quabble. As the situation develops, Mr. Hoover is being accused on Capitol hill of making a political blunder.

Neither senate nor house was in session today but the sentiment of republican leaders has been conveyed to the president by telephone and personal discussion.

STILL MISSING

Photo shows explosion of dynamite in Turtle Creek, Beloit, Wis., where police sought the bodies of J. Everett Sapp (inset), missing Rockford, Ill., business man, and Helen Schoener (inset), who disappeared with him. The effort proved futile, however, and authorities now seek the couple in Chicago.

CHANGE IN FAMILY RELATIONS DOES NOT STRAIN BRIDGE TIES

Chicago, Dec. 13.—(U.P.)—Mr. and Mrs. Lee Sims and Mr. and Mrs. Robert F. Steiner used to play bridge together.

Sims is a famed radio and vaudeville artist. He plays the piano and recites humorous pieces in dialect. Robert Steiner's first wife—the one who used to play bridge with the Simses—was Hiram Bailey, stage and radio singer. Steiner is a business man.

Not long ago Sims and Mrs. Sims were divorced. So were Steiner and Mrs. Steiner. Then Sims and the former Mrs. Steiner were married. So were Steiner and the former Mrs. Sims.

And, it was revealed today, the Simses and the Steiners still play bridge together.

SINCLAIR LEWIS' HOME TOWN FOLKS FEELING GOOD

PROUD THAT HE WON NOBEL PRIZE, GIVING SAUK CENTER MUCH PUBLICITY

OLDER PEOPLE REMEMBER HIM WHEN HE WAS FRECKLE-FACED LITTLE KID

Sauk Center, Minn., Dec. 13.—(U.P.)—Sinclair Lewis' home town folks feel pretty good about Sinclair getting "that Nobel prize" and think it's giving the town a lot of good publicity.

The older people remember when Lewis was a "freckle-faced, red-haired little kid" running about the streets while the younger set were his playmates, so it was a little hard for them to get used to thinking of Sinclair as a world-renowned figure.

When "Main Street" came out, the whole town went up in arms. The Herald printed editorials condemning the book and some citizens even went so far as to say that Sauk Center should publicly disown him.

That feeling is gone now, though some still think that Lewis is too critical and cynical and doesn't write enough about the "good side of life."

But even the die-hards reluctantly have agreed that Lewis is a great author and everybody in town is proud that he has won literature's greatest prize.

Mayor S. J. Holme, who has known Lewis "ever since he was a little bit of a kid," said he thought the award of the prize was "pretty nice."

"Of course, there was lots of feeling here when 'Main Street' came out, but it seems to me Sinclair has proven himself to Sauk Center," Holme said. "There's been a big change in people's attitude toward him in the years since 'Main Street'."

Dr. J. S. Dubois grew up with Lewis and thinks he's a "good fellow."

"What Lewis says about America is pretty much so, isn't it?" Dr. Dubois said, referring to Lewis' remarks on accepting the Nobel award. "I think Lewis has painted a fairly true picture of our country."

Alleen Nordberg, Sauk Center's telephone operator, thinks Lewis is too critical and sarcastic. She said she was "good and disgusted" over his remarks about the American attitude toward literature in his talk at Stockholm.

"I've read all his books and I like 'Tree Air' best. Of course, we're awfully proud of him up here. I think he's a good writer, but his subjects sometimes aren't very nice," Miss Nordberg said.

Sauk Center hasn't gotten very excited about the award of the Nobel prize to Lewis, N. J. Fleming, manager of the Sauk Center Herald, said.

"Most of the folks come in and say 'Well, I see where Sinclair has got the prize all right.' But I haven't heard discussion. We printed a story about the award, but the paper didn't comment editorially," he said.

"Naturally, the award has given the town a lot of recognition."

Mrs. Henry Otto, president of the Episcopal Women's Guild, has been one of Lewis' staunchest defenders.

"There's been a big change in Sauk Center," she said. "When 'Main Street' came out, I don't think there were 12 people who stood by Lewis. Now most everyone thinks he's done remarkably well."

"When 'Main Street' appeared the town thought he hadn't showed up the good things in a small town. But he just wanted to wake us up. A small group of people still disapprove of him, but the furor and resentment has all died down."

Numberous Celebrities Pay Respects to President

Washington, Dec. 13.—(U.P.)—Numerous celebrities, here for tonight's gridiron dinner, called upon President Hoover today to pay their respects. Gov. Kohler of Wisconsin was one of the visitors.

LOYAL TROOPS DEFEAT REBELS, PREMIER STATES

FIGHT TAKES PLACE ON THE AYERBE ROAD; OVER 100 DEAD AND INJURED

GOVERNMENT NOW CLAIMS TO HAVE THE SITUATION WELL IN HAND

By WILLIAM H. LANDER (United Press Staff Correspondent) Madrid, Dec. 13.—(U.P.)—Loyal troops defeated rebel forces in a fight on the Ayerbe Road (near Jaca) today, taking more than 100 rebel prisoners, Premier Gen. Damaso Berenguer announced.

"You can take it the Jaca movement is ended," the premier announced. The loyal troops also captured war materials from the rebels.

(Copyright, 1930, by United Press) Outside Jaca, Spain, Dec. 13.—(Via telephone to Paris)—Loyal government troops delivered a crushing blow to the Jaca revolutionary forces today in a short, furious encounter near Ayerbe, a short distance from Jaca.

Two columns of federal troops were drawn up and point blank artillery fire was opened on the rebel columns. Officials estimated the dead and injured at 100.

Many civilian and military insurrectionists were captured and government officials considered the insurrection virtually ended as the other rebels fled to the mountains.

The commanding government officials had not definitely decided on disposition of the prisoners captured but it was generally expected they would be executed by a foreign squad at dawn tomorrow.

The government was victorious from the first blow. Rebels fell before the heavy artillery fire and the loyalist forces turned the battle almost into a massacre.

"The artillery fired squarely into the rebel ranks, felling dozens of revolutionaries with each shot. Screams of the wounded pierced the dull roar of cannons."

The shattered insurrectionist forces previously had fallen back to the south in an effort to deploy and entrench themselves a mile outside of Ayerbe. Two columns of loyal regular troops advanced on the run from Huesca and Saragossa, accompanied by eight batteries of artillery under command of General Dolla.

The battle occurred half way between Jaca and Huesca, the rebels having advanced toward Huesca, which was their most important objective enroute to Barcelona.

The insurgents advanced in military column formation. They were well armed, each man carrying extra bandoliers with ammunition. Two loyal federal officers, General Las Heras and his aide, marched in front of the rebel column. They were hostages, having been captured by the insurgents.

General Las Heras was captured on Friday afternoon as he reconnoitered near Jaca, seeking news of the exact nature of the uprising.

Loyal troops from Huesca were reinforced by troops from Saragossa as they advanced on the rebels. The federalists took up their position across the highway a mile outside Ayerbe, between the railway tracks and the Gellero river. They opened a heavy fire, obliging the rebel column to turn hastily and retreat in great confusion without the loyal troops following up their first advantage at once.

The artillery then was used as the federal commanders awaited arrival of machine gun detachments.

The insurgent forces, a heterogeneous army composed of artillerymen, infantrymen and civilians, were not well prepared to face 75 millimeter field pieces drawn up by the federalists. The insurgents quickly became panic-stricken and were thrown into confusion as the cannon fire chopped great gaps in their ranks.

The loyalist soldiers surrounded groups of rebels attempting to flee. The encounter lasted a scant half hour, leaving about 100 dead or dying in what had been a quiet river valley before its calm was shattered by the roar of battle.

Several hundred rifles were captured from the rebels and also several trucks filled with grenades and ammunition. The trucks had been following the rebel columns and were seized before the chauffeurs could turn around and flee.

When the encounter ended the loyal soldiers assembled on the battle ground and raised a great cheer. They then proceeded to Jaca to crush completely the uprising.

News of the defeat of the rebel forces was received in Jaca quickly, causing scores of rebel sympathizers or organizers to flee to the mountains for safety. It was considered unlikely that the federalists would ever be able to round up all of them in the fastness of the mountains. Many were believed certain to reach the French border where they will merely be required to surrender their arms before crossing the frontier.

The victorious General Dolla asked the government at Madrid to call a meeting of the council of war immediately to decide on disposition of the prisoners.

Paris, Dec. 13.—The cabinet formed by Theodore Steeg, former governor general of Morocco, encountered its first obstacle in the early hours of its political life today.

Steeg's ministry replacing that of Andre Tardieu, was scarcely complete when the new under-secretary of aviation, Etienne Riche, resigned.

"I accepted a portfolio with the understanding that the radicals had lifted their exclusion order against Tardieu and the republican-democratic union," Riche wrote the premier.

NEIGHBORS SEEK FOR THE BODY OF MRS. A. E. HAVEN

LATTER DISAPPEARED MYSTERIOUSLY FROM WATFORD CITY, N. D.

NEW CLUES MAY CLEAR UP WHAT HAPPENED TO SIX MEMBERS OF FAMILY

Watford City, N. D., Dec. 13.—Neighbors of the Haven family which disappeared mysteriously ten months ago dug relentlessly into the supposed grave of Mrs. A. E. Haven today.

Additional information given by Charles Bannon, 22, farm hand who lived with the Havens, furnished the men with new clues which officials hope may clear up the mystery of what happened to the six members of the family.

Whether the grave of Mrs. Haven is discovered rests confirmation of a story of murder and burial of the family under the barn and in refuse piles while Bannon ran the farm for ten months. At first Bannon blamed Mrs. Haven for the killings, then he said the neighbors of the family had killed the six persons, finally he blamed a farmer near the Haven property and a stranger whose name he did not know.

The bodies of Haven and his children were discovered when Bannon directed officials to the graves on the farm.

Officials today continued their questioning of the farm hand in an effort to obtain the true story of his actions. Bannon repeatedly protested that he had nothing to do with the killings and only assisted in burying the bodies. Officials are holding him pending the filing of definite charges when more extensive information is available.

Watford City, N. D., Dec. 13.—(U.P.)—Hammer blows apparently brought death to six members of the A. E. Haven family, searchers who continued to unearth portions of their decomposed bodies said today.

Preliminary examination of the more complete corpses which were found buried in a barn on the Haven farm showed crushed skulls. The blows probably were struck by a hammer, investigators said.

Complete bodies of Haven, his sons Daniel 19, Leland 16, and Charles 3, had been found today. A few bones and some hair had been uncovered which searchers believed were portions of the corpses of Mr. Haven and her six weeks old daughter.

Williston police continued to question Charles Bannon, 22, neighbor, who took over the Haven farm last February 10 after telling friends that the Havens had left for the Pacific coast.

They reported that his story of the killing of the Havens continued to vary.

A neighbor of the Havens was also brought to Williston when Bannon again changed his tale. Bannon said the neighbor and a stranger had killed the Haven family and forced him to help bury them.

Bannon told searchers that the body of Mrs. Haven and her infant would be found in the barn where the other corpses were located, but diggers today had been unable to locate the entire body.

A telegram was sent to police at Watertown, S. D., asking them to look for James Bannon, father of the man held at Williston. The Bannons occupied the adjoining farm at the time the Havens disappeared.

Police today revealed that the investigation of the killing was opened after George Lane, Portland, Ore., brother of Mrs. Haven, asked that a search be made.

Neighbors said that no interest had been aroused when the Havens disappeared last February. Bannon said at the time that he was farming the Haven property as a tenant.

First intimation that anything was wrong came when relatives of the Havens started suit against Bannon for embezzlement.

Another Dispute Added to Issues Which Aggravate Relations Between Hoover, Senate

PRESIDENT OBJECTS TO AMENDMENT MADE BY SENATE

REFERRED TO CHANGE IN EMERGENCY UNEMPLOYMENT BILL

By LYLE C. WILSON
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, Dec. 13.—An agreement was reached by house and senate conferees today on the administration unemployment bill. They reduced the total appropriation from $118,000,000 to $116,000,000 and retained the flexible clause permitting President Hoover discretion in allocating funds.

The conferees eliminated the senate amendment by Democratic Floor Leader Robinson restricting the president's power in distributing the appropriation for constructing roads on public lands. The conference report must be passed upon by the house and senate.

Washington, Dec. 13.—Another dispute has been added to the issues aggravating relations between President Hoover and the senate. Minority Leader Robinson created this latest point of friction.

Mr. Hoover objects to an amendment made by the senate to the emergency unemployment bill. The change, suggested by Robinson and adopted unanimously without debate, would prevent Mr. Hoover from disposing of the sum appropriated as he may desire.

The house sent the bill to the senate with a proviso that Mr. Hoover could transfer the sums appropriated in the bill from one purpose to any other and Robinson's objection to that was, in effect, a lump sum appropriation. Forthwith it was stricken from the bill.

Mr. Hoover today apparently contemplates the possibility of vetoing drought relief legislation if congress insists it shall appropriate $60,000,000. And he objects, although less sharply, to the senate's amendment of the unemployment measure. House republicans are resorting to every possible parliamentary maneuver to prevent the senate's $60,000,000 drought bill from reaching the floor for a vote.

It appears the house would support the bill despite Mr. Hoover's objections if a free expression of opinion were possible. The president wants to limit the appropriation to $25,000,000.

Practical politicians are pondering this suddenly risen storm which involves the president and leaders of both parties in the senate. The house is more amenable to party leadership and figures only slightly so far in the squabble. As the situation develops, Mr. Hoover is being accused on capitol hill of making a political blunder.

Neither senate nor house was in session today but the sentiment of republicans has been conveyed to the president by telephone and personal discussion.

Senator Fess, chairman of the republican national committee, spent nearly an hour at the White House last evening. He left insisting that he had discussed with the president the name of a successor to Col. U. S. Grant who is resigning from the Washington Centennial organization.

But the conference was prolonged. Mr. Hoover postponing for half an hour an appointment with his dentist to continue with Fess. It appears to be a fair inference that other matters were considered.

St. Paul, Dec. 13.—(U.P.)—Incorporations of two Duluth firms were filed with Secretary of State Mike Holm today.

The Northern Drug Co., with $500,000 authorized capital, $200,000 to be used in Minnesota, filed copies of Delaware articles of incorporation. The firm will engage in wholesale and retail handling of drugs, with headquarters in Duluth and stores throughout the state.

The Hicks Tire Co., with $50,000 authorized capital, filed articles. Incorporators are three Akron, O., men.

As the situation develops, Mr. Hoover is being accused on capitol hill of making a political blunder. Neither senate nor house was in session today but the sentiment of republicans has been conveyed to the president by telephone and personal discussion.

Senator Fess, chairman of the republican national committee, spent nearly an hour at the White House last evening. He left insisting that he had discussed with the president the name of a successor to Col. U. S. Grant who is resigning from the Washington Centennial organization.

But the conference was prolonged. Mr. Hoover postponing for half an hour an appointment with his dentist to continue with Fess. It appears to be a fair inference that other matters were considered.

Once at the site we hastily pitched camp on the banks of the Yaqui river and immediately began excavation work. Docile natives we brought from Soyopa did the main shovel work, while the scientists told them where to dig.

Working rapidly for two nights and a day, the little band of American and Mexican archaeologists unearthed the petrified remains of a youth six feet eight inches tall, the skeletons of four other children of lesser stature and several jars filled with human ashes.

The importance of these discoveries was the fact they definitely established our scene of operations as a great burial ground, according to Dr. Byron R. Cummings, dean of the University of Arizona archaeology department and leader of the expedition.

Their confidence renewed by the discoveries, the scientists at once turned their attention to uncovering the skeletons of adults—the relics upon which they will rely to establish their belief in the existence of a hitherto mythical race of "Cyclops."

J. L. Coker, the Sonora mining man who guided us to the excavation site and pointed out the three giant skeletons he found a few weeks ago surveyed a wide area which he said held possibilities for added discoveries.

The roving bands of wild Yaqui Indians are our only source of worry. They are armed and we are compelled to keep a sharp lookout for them at all times.

Travelling to the excavations from Soyopa we met a band of 20 of these savages. We had expected such an encounter, but their ferocious appearance startled us as they stood in our path waiting for us to approach.

It was Professor Manuel San Domingo, historical and geographical research investigator for the government of Sonora and leader of the Mexican scientists, who saved us from probable trouble. He knows the native Yaqui language by long association in these uncivilized regions, and reasoned with the band in their own tongue. They gave no friendly signs, but allowed us to pass unmolested.

Once at the site we hastily pitched camp on the banks of the Yaqui river and immediately began excavation work. Docile natives we brought from Soyopa did the main shovel work, while the scientists told them where to dig.

Working rapidly for two nights and a day, the little band of American and Mexican archaeologists unearthed the petrified remains of a youth six feet eight inches tall, the skeletons of four other children of lesser stature and several jars filled with human ashes.

The importance of these discoveries was the fact they definitely established our scene of operations as a great burial ground, according to Dr. Byron R. Cummings, dean of the University of Arizona archaeology department and leader of the expedition.

Their confidence renewed by the discoveries, the scientists at once turned their attention to uncovering the skeletons of adults—the relics upon which they will rely to establish their belief in the existence of a hitherto mythical race of "Cyclops."

CHANGE IN FAMILY RELATIONS DOES NOT STRAIN BRIDGE TIES

Chicago, Dec. 13.—(U.P.)—Mr. and Mrs. Lee Sims and Mr. and Mrs. Robert F. Steiner used to play bridge together.

Sims is a famed radio and vaudeville artist. He plays the piano and recites humorous pieces in dialect. Robert Steiner's first wife—the one who used to play bridge with the Simses—was Ho-may Bailey, stage and radio singer. Steiner is a business man.

Not long ago Sims and Mrs. Sims were divorced. So were Steiner and Mrs. Steiner. Then Sims and the former Mrs. Steiner were married. So were Steiner and the former Mrs. Sims.

And, it was revealed today, the Simses and the Steiners still play bridge together.

SINCLAIR LEWIS' HOME TOWN FOLKS FEELING GOOD

PROUD THAT HE WON NOBEL PRIZE, GIVING SAUK CENTER MUCH PUBLICITY

OLDER PEOPLE REMEMBER HIM WHEN HE WAS FRECKLE-FACED LITTLE KID

Sauk Center, Minn., Dec. 13.—(U.P.)—Sinclair Lewis' home town folks feel pretty good about Sinclair getting "that Nobel prize" and think it's giving the town a lot of good publicity.

The older people remember when Lewis was a "freckle-faced, red-haired little kid" running about the streets while the younger set were his playmates, so it was a little hard for them to get used to thinking of Sinclair as a world-renowned figure.

When "Main Street" came out, the whole town went up in arms. The Herold printed editorials condemning the book and some citizens even went so far as to say that Sauk Center should publicly disown him.

That feeling is gone now, though some still think that Lewis is too critical and cynical and doesn't write enough about the "good side of life."

But even the die-hards reluctantly have agreed that Lewis is a great author and everybody in town is proud that he has won literature's greatest prize.

Mayor S. J. Holme, who has known Lewis "ever since he was a little bit of a kid," said he thought the award of the prize was "pretty nice."

"Of course, there was lots of feeling here when 'Main Street' came out, but it seems to me Sinclair has proven himself to Sauk Center," Holme said.

"There's been a big change in people's attitude toward him in the years since 'Main Street'."

Dr. J. S. Dubois grew up with Lewis and thinks he's a "good fellow."

"What Lewis says about America is pretty much so, isn't it?" Dr. Dubois said, referring to Lewis' remarks on accepting the Nobel award. "I think Lewis has painted a fairly true picture of our country."

Aileen Nordberg, Sauk Center's telephone operator, thinks Lewis is too critical and sarcastic. She said she was "good and disgusted" over his remarks about the American attitude toward literature in his talk at Stockholm.

"I've read all his books and I like 'Free Air' best. Of course, we're awfully proud of him up here. I think he's a good writer, but his subjects sometimes aren't very nice," Miss Nordberg said.

Sauk Center hasn't gotten very excited about the award of the Nobel prize to Lewis, N. J. Fleming, manager of the Sauk Center Herald, said.

"Most of the folks come in and say 'Well, I see where Sinclair has got the prize all right.' But I haven't heard discussion. We printed a story about the award, but the paper didn't comment editorially," he said.

"Naturally, the award has given the town a lot of recognition."

Mrs. Henry Otto, president of the Episcopal Women's Guild, has been one of Lewis' staunchest defenders.

"There's been a big change in Sauk Center," she said. "When 'Main Street' came out, I don't think there were 12 people who stood by Lewis. Now most everyone thinks he's done remarkably well."

"When 'Main Street' appeared the town thought he hadn't showed up the good things in a small town. But he just wanted to wake us up. A small group of people still disapprove of him, but the furor and resentment has all died down."

LOYAL TROOPS DEFEAT REBELS, PREMIER STATES

FIGHT TAKES PLACE ON THE AYERBE ROAD; OVER 100 DEAD AND INJURED

GOVERNMENT NOW CLAIMS TO HAVE THE SITUATION WELL IN HAND

By WILLIAM H. LANDER
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
Madrid, Dec. 13.—(U.P.)—Loyal troops defeated rebel forces in a fight on the Ayerbe Road (near Jaca) today, taking more than 100 rebel prisoners, Premier Gen. Damaso Berenguer announced.

"You can take it the Jaca movement is ended," the premier announced.

The loyal troops also captured war materials from the rebels.

(Copyright, 1930, by United Press)
Outside Jaca, Spain, Dec. 13.—(Via telephone to Paris)—Loyal government troops delivered a crushing blow to the Jaca revolutionary forces today in a short, furious encounter near Ayerbe, a short distance from Jaca.

Two columns of federal troops were drawn up and point blank artillery fire was opened on the rebel columns. Officials estimated the dead and injured at 100.

Many civilian and military insurrectionists were captured and government officials considered the insurrection virtually ended as the other rebels fled to the mountains.

The commanding government officials had not definitely decided on disposition of the prisoners captured but it was generally expected they would be executed by a foreign squad at dawn tomorrow.

The government was victorious from the first blow. Rebels fled before the heavy artillery fire and the loyalist forces turned the battle almost into a massacre.

The artillery fired squarely into the rebel ranks, felling dozens of revolutionaries with each shot. Screams of the wounded pierced the dull roar of cannons.

The shattered insurrectionist forces previously had fallen back to the south in an effort to deploy and entrench themselves a mile outside of Ayerbe. Two columns of loyal regular troops advanced on the run from Huesca and Saragossa, accompanied by eight batteries of artillery under command of General Dolla.

The battle occurred half way between Jaca and Huesca, the rebels having advanced toward Huesca, which was their most important objective enroute to Barcelona.

The insurgents advanced in military column formation. They were well armed, each man carrying extra bandoliers with ammunition. Two loyal federal officers, General Las Heras and his aide, marched in front of the rebel column. They were hostages, having been captured by the insurgents.

General Las Heras was captured on Friday afternoon as he reconnoitered near Jaca, seeking news of the exact nature of the uprising.

Loyal troops from Huesca were reinforced by troops from Saragossa as they advanced on the rebels. The federalists took up their position across the highway a mile outside Ayerbe, between the railway tracks and the Gellego river. They opened a heavy fire, obliging the rebel column to turn hastily and retreat in great confusion without the loyal troops following up their first advantage at once.

The artillery then was used as the federal commanders awaited arrival of machine gun detachments.

The insurgent forces, a heterogeneous army composed of artillerymen, infantrymen and civilians, were not well prepared to face 75 millimeter field pieces drawn up by the federals. The insurgents quickly became panic-stricken and were thrown into confusion as the cannon fire chopped great gaps in their ranks.

The loyalist soldiers surrounded groups of rebels attempting to flee.

The encounter lasted a scant half hour, leaving about 100 dead or dying in what had been a quiet river valley before its calm was shattered by the roar of battle.

Several hundred rifles were captured from the rebels and also several trucks filled with grenades and ammunition. The trucks had been following the rebel columns and were seized before the chauffeurs could turn around and flee.

When the encounter ended the loyal soldiers assembled on the battle ground and raised a great cheer. They then proceeded to Jaca to crush completely the uprising.

News of the defeat of the rebel forces was received in Jaca quickly, causing scores of rebel sympathizers or organizers to flee to the mountains for safety. It was considered unlikely that the federals would ever be able to round up all of them in the fastness of the mountains. Many were believed certain to reach the French border where they will merely be required to surrender their arms before crossing the frontier.

The victorious General Dolla asked the government at Madrid to call a meeting of the council of war immediately to decide on disposition of the prisoners.

TRUNK HIGHWAYS
GENERALLY GOOD

Trunk highways throughout Minnesota are generally good, according to the weekly road condition report issued by the State Highway department today. There are some exceptions, mostly on routes of recent construction, where the new gravel has not been compacted by traffic. On warm days these stretches are likely to be soft, and rough when frozen.

As long as alternate freezing and thawing continue, the paved routes are likely to be slippery part of the time. Motorists are urged to drive very cautiously at such times, especially at turns and intersections.

Home Hygiene Classes of St. Mathias Meet With County Nurse Miss Walz

The Home Hygiene and Care of the Sick in the Home classes of St. Mathias met with the county nurse, Miss Caroline Walz, at the home of Mrs. Anton F. Claus on Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

Miss Walz gave an interesting and instructive talk on health in which she showed the advances for better health. Crow Wing county has gained in the rural and village schools during the past few years.

At the close of the session, she thanked the women of St. Mathias for their interest and cooperation in the work for better rural health, and presented a certificate to each of the 14 women present who had completed the course and taken the final examinations of Home Hygiene and Care of the Sick in the Home. Those completing the course of 12 lessons and receiving certificates were: Mrs. Ole Anderson, Mrs. Leroy Sowell, Mrs. Sam Harris, Mrs. G. E. Burroughs, Mrs. John Tautges, Mrs. Wm. Gravel, Mrs. Wm. Jordan, Mrs. Ben Grieson, Mrs. Amelia Peterson, Mrs. Albert Peterson, Mrs. Peter Rascep, Mrs. Harold Falk, Mrs. Fred Hellen and Mrs. Anton F. Claus.

Mrs. Claus extended to Miss Walz the appreciation and thanks of the ladies of St. Mathias for the assistance she has rendered, and for her work in the community. "We feel it a privilege to work with a woman like Miss Walz," she said.

A shower of clothing and food was then presented the county nurse for distribution among the poor of the rural communities, for which she was grateful.

At the adjournment of the meeting, coffee, cake and sandwiches were served by the ladies to the 21 attending.

11 Candidates Receive Degrees; Program Closes With Popular Dance

The Roosevelt Chapter of DeMolay dinner, degree work and dance held last evening was a decided success from every point of view. One hundred and fifty boys with their advisors gathered around the table at the Masonic hall for the dinner which was served by eight Tri-Hi girls, cleverly dressed, each wearing a dainty white apron.

The table was decorated with Christmas candles and miniature Christmas trees. In the center of the hall was a large Christmas tree, beautifully decorated and lighted, giving a cheery Christmas air to the surroundings.

The banquet was followed by degree work, with 11 candidates receiving degrees, among them being three from St. Cloud. The initiatory degree was put on by the Granite City Chapter of St. Cloud, and the DeMolay degree by the Roosevelt Chapter. The boys' work was exemplary, receiving the commendation of all. The speakers of the evening were G. Beaver, Jr., of St. Cloud, Rev. F. A. Kufus and "Dad" G. F. Mitchell of Brainerd.

The remainder of the evening was spent in dancing, music being provided by Ray Bowden's orchestra. Seventy-five couples attended the dance.

G. Beaver, Jr., Master Counsellor, of St. Cloud, extended to the Roosevelt chapter their appreciation for the evening's entertainment, and in turn invited the Roosevelt chapter to be their guests on Friday, December 26.

Fifty-three boys from St. Cloud were present together with their advisors. The boys from Crosby were over 100 percent, and enjoyed to the full the hospitality of Roosevelt Chapter.

PRIDE OF GREAT LAKES NOW ONLY BURNED HULK

Chicago, Dec. 13.—(U.P.)—Once the pride of the Great Lakes, the steamer Commodore was only ashes today on the surface of Lake Michigan. Her hulk beached at the foot of Randolph street for the past decade as a navy armory, was ignited and destroyed yesterday to make way for the Chicago new outer drive.

Launched 56 years ago at Cleveland into Lake Erie and thereafter for 20 years one of the best known vessels on the lakes, the Commodore served for 38 years as a packet steamer for the New York Central lines until the navy bought her in 1912.

A series of social dances will be given during the winter at Gardner hall by the Maple Leaf Dancing club. There was a meeting of the Brainerd Commercial club last night in the club rooms. The membership is growing fast, six new men having been made members last evening.

A play will be given January 3 by the Elks lodge of Brainerd, the proceeds of which will be used for Christmas charities. The cast is now getting into shape.

A benefit donation party and dance will be given by Brainerd Lodge No. 602 E. A. Y. in Columbian hall Tuesday to assist in relieving a poor family in West Brainerd.

Auditor M. W. Downie left for St. Paul this afternoon on business. Attorney L. E. Lum arrived from the East this afternoon.

There was a car attached to the M. & I. from the north this morning containing 40 or more men, most of them loaded to the guards. They belonged to the steel gang that had been working on the M. & I. extension. They became so obstreperous that the trainmen were forced to lock both ends of the car.

TRUNK HIGHWAYS GENERALLY GOOD

Trunk highways throughout Minnesota are generally good, according to the weekly road condition report issued by the State Highway department today. There are some exceptions, mostly on routes of recent construction, where the new gravel has not been compacted by traffic. On warm days these stretches are likely to be soft, and rough when frozen.

As long as alternate freezing and thawing continue, the paved routes are likely to be slippery part of the time. Motorists are urged to drive very cautiously at such times, especially at turns and intersections.

Detailed reports insofar as they refer to trunk highways in the Brainerd Lake Region:

T. H. No. 2—Duluth, Brainerd, Wadena, Detroit Lakes and Moorhead—260 miles—Duluth, paved—Carlton, good, fair, good—Cromwell, good, fair—McGregor, fair—Turner Lake, good—Detroit Lakes, paved—Moorhead.

T. H. No. 18—Elk River, Milaca and Brainerd—103 miles—Good.

T. H. No. 19—Brainerd, Walker and Cass Lake—93 miles—Good.

T. H. No. 27—St. Cloud, Little Falls and Brainerd—62 miles—Paved.

Roads Planned in Forests to Aid Fire Fighters

Milwaukee, Dec. 13.—(U.P.)—Hundreds of miles of roads in the national forests of Wisconsin, Minnesota and Michigan are being planned to aid fire fighters and to serve tourists, forest supervisors of the three states in session here announced today.

The roads, which will range from trail to first class highways, will be constructed as funds are available.

Peiping, Dec. 13.—(U.P.)—American and British consultants at Canton asked the protection of warships today for 36 missionaries threatened by a communist uprising at Haihow, on the Island of Hainan.

The missionaries, said to be all American or British, were reported in very grave danger. Hainan Island is southeast of Canton, off the Lai Chow peninsula, the southernmost tip of Kwantung province.

Home Hygiene Classes of St. Mathias Meet With County Nurse Miss Walz

The Home Hygiene and Care of the Sick in the Home classes of St. Mathias met with the county nurse, Miss Caroline Walz, at the home of Mrs. Anton F. Claus on Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

Miss Walz gave an interesting and instructive talk on health in which she showed the advantages for better health Crow Wing county has gained in the rural and village schools during the past few years.

At the close of the session, she thanked the women of St. Mathias for their interest and cooperation in the work for better rural health, and presented a certificate to each of the 14 women present who had completed the course, and taken the final examinations of Home Hygiene and Care of the Sick in the Home. Those completing the course of 12 lessons and receiving certificates were: Mrs. Ole Anderson, Mrs. Leroy Sewell, Mrs. Sam Harris, Mrs. G. E. Burroughs, Mrs. John Tautges, Mrs. Wm. Gravell, Mrs. Wm. Jordan, Mrs. Ben Grieson, Mrs. Amelia Peterson, Mrs. Albert Peterson, Mrs. Peter Rasop, Mrs. Harold Falk, Mrs. Fred Hellen and Mrs. Anton F. Claus.

Mrs. Claus extended to Miss Walz the appreciation and thanks of the ladies of St. Mathias for the assistance she has rendered, and for her work in the community. "We feel it a privilege to work with a woman like Miss Walz," she said.

A shower of clothing and food was then presented the county nurse for distribution among the poor of the rural communities, for which she was grateful.

At the adjournment of the meeting, coffee, cake and sandwiches were served by the ladies to the 21 attending.

YULE MOTIF AT BANQUET

11 Candidates Receive Degrees; Program Closes With Popular Dance

The Roosevelt Chapter of DeMolay dinner, degree work and dance held last evening was a decided success from every point of view. One hundred and fifty boys with their advisors gathered around the table at the Masonic hall for the dinner which was served by eight Tri-Hi girls, cleverly dressed, each wearing a dainty white apron.

The table was decorated with Christmas candles and miniature Christmas trees. In the center of the hall was a large Christmas tree, beautifully decorated and lighted, giving a cheery Christmas air to the surroundings.

The banquet was followed by degree work, with 11 candidates receiving degrees, among them being three from St. Cloud. The initiatory degree was put on by the Granite City Chapter of St. Cloud, and the DeMolay degree by the Roosevelt Chapter. The boys' work was exemplary, receiving the commendation of all. The speakers of the evening were G. Beaver, Sr., of St. Cloud, Rev. F. A. Kuus and "Dad" G. F. Mitchell of Brainerd.

The remainder of the evening was spent in dancing, music being provided by Ray Bowden's orchestra. Seventy-five couples attended the dance.

G. Beaver, Jr., Master Counsellor, of St. Cloud, extended to the Roosevelt chapter their appreciation for the evening's entertainment, and in turn invited the Roosevelt chapter to be their guests on Friday, December 26.

PRIDE OF GREAT LAKES NOW ONLY BURNED HULK

Chicago, Dec. 13.—(U.P.)—Once the pride of the Great Lakes, the steamer Commodore was only ashes today on the surface of Lake Michigan. Her hulk beached at the foot of Randolph street for the past decade as a navy armory, was ignited and destroyed yesterday to make way for the Chicago new outer drive.

Launched 56 years ago at Cleveland into Lake Erie and thereafter for 20 years one of the best known vessels on the lakes, the Commodore served for 38 years as a packet steamer for the New York Central lines until the navy bought her in 1912.

FORREST GENT IS ARRESTED TODAY

HELD FOR QUESTIONING IN MINNEAPOLIS, DEATH OF SISTER INVESTIGATED

Minneapolis, Dec. 13.—(UP)—Forrest Gent, whose sister Gay, 45, was found slain in her home near Rockford, Minn., was arrested today for questioning by detectives.

Delmont Gent, a second brother who lived with Miss Gent also is being held.

George Koeler, real estate dealer of Watertown, S. D., told detectives today that he visited with Miss Gent the evening before she was slain. He said they were discussing a land transfer and that Forrest was there when he left the house at 10 p. m.

Soviet Foe Gets Ten Years' Imprisonment

Professor Leonid C. Ramzin, leader of the "Prom," or Industrial Party, which fomented the revolt against Communism, with four of his aides, received a sentence of ten years' imprisonment from the four judges who sat in the trial. At first Ramzin and the other four were given death sentences. Three other men, found guilty of treason, were sentenced to eight years.

EVERETT SAPP, MISSING SALESMAN, LOCATED TODAY

LODGED IN HENNEPIN COUNTY JAIL ON GRAND LARCENY CHARGES

WITH SAPP WAS WOMAN GIVING NAME OF HELEN SCHANER

Minneapolis, Dec. 13.—(UP)—Everett Sapp, missing Beloit, Wis., salesman, was located here this afternoon.

Sapp was lodged in Hennepin county jail on grand larceny charges. He was accused of selling 21 phonographs in the apartment house in which he was living.

With Sapp was a woman who gave the name of Helen Schaner. Police said they were living in an apartment under the name of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Smith.

The arrests were made by Hennepin county deputy sheriffs in company with Deputy Sheriff E. J. McKenzie, Rockford, Ill.

According to McKenzie, extradition papers will be filed immediately for the removal of Sapp and Miss Schaner to Rockford.

McKenzie said that the phonographs had been shipped from Rockford to a number of fictitious addresses and later collected at a warehouse at Freeport, Ill. From Freeport they were brought to Minneapolis, where, police charged, Sapp planned to sell them.

Both Sapp and Miss Schaner were armed when the arrests were made.

Soviet Foe Gets Ten Years' Imprisonment

Professor Leonid C. Ramzin, leader of the "Prom," or Industrial Party, which fomented the revolt against Communism, with four of his aides, received a sentence of ten years' imprisonment from the four judges who sat in the trial. At first Ramzin and the other four were given death sentences. Three other men, found guilty of treason, were sentenced to eight years.

EVERETT SAPP, MISSING SALESMAN, LOCATED TODAY

LODGED IN HENNEPIN COUNTY JAIL ON GRAND LARCENY CHARGES

WITH SAPP WAS WOMAN GIVING NAME OF HELEN SCHANER

Minneapolis, Dec. 13.—(UP)—Everett Sapp, missing Elmo, Wis., salesman, was located here this afternoon.

Sapp was lodged in Hennepin county jail on grand larceny charges. He was accused of selling 21 phonographs in the apartment house in which he was living.

With Sapp was a woman who gave the name of Helen Schaner. Police said they were living in an apartment under the name of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Smith.

The arrests were made by Hennepin county deputy sheriffs in company with Deputy Sheriff E. J. McKenzie, Rockford, Ill.

According to McKenzie, extradition papers will be filed immediately for the removal of Sapp and Miss Schaner to Rockford.

McKenzie said that the phonographs had been shipped from Rockford to a number of fictitious addresses and later collected at a warehouse at Freeport, Ill. From Freeport they were brought to Minneapolis, where, police charged, Sapp planned to sell them.

Both Sapp and Miss Schaner were armed when the arrests were made.

MRS. ANNA O'NEIL, 30 YEARS HERE, DIES

Leaves One Son, Harold and Brother, John Griffin of City; Rites Monday

Mrs. Anna O'Neil of 907 South Broadway, passed away Friday afternoon after a long illness at the age of 62 years.

Mrs. O'Neil was born at Central Mine, Mich., on June 16, 1868 and was a resident of Brainerd for 30 years.

Surviving are one son, Harold and one brother, John Griffin, both of Brainerd.

The funeral will be held from the St. Francis Catholic church at 8:20 a. m. Monday. Interment will be at Evergreen cemetery.

LOOK FOR BURGLAR, FIND HOME AFIRE

Fred Anderson Investigates Noise in Basement, Find Flames Cracking on Ceiling

What sounded like a burglar walking around in the basement was in reality a fire, Fred Anderson learned on investigating at 4:20 a. m. today at his home at 416 South Broadway.

Mrs. Anderson awoke to hear a noise in the basement.

"I believe there is a burglar prowling around," she told her husband.

"No, that's nothing," her husband replied.

Later Mr. Anderson did hear something and on investigating found flames crackling on the ceiling of the basement.

Efficient work by the fire department prevented heavy damage. The loss was fixed at approximately $150. No cause could be given for the fire, except that it started in a box of wood.

Pavements Bring Direct Traveling

ONE of the first things a beginner in geometry learns is that a straight line is the shortest distance between two points, says E. M. Duffy, a traffic and highway expert. Those who laid out the vast majority of this country's 3,000,000 miles of rural roads, however, necessarily disregarded this truism and as a consequence American motorists now are yearly traveling millions of miles out of their way.

Fortunately when communities adopt progressive paving programs, highway builders consider not only the grade and safety factors of location, but also directions. To illustrate how motorists have been going out of their way, observe that Louisiana in building the new concrete Baton Rouge-New Orleans airline highway is shortening the road distance between the two cities by 38 miles.

In building her 1,040 miles of hard surfaced pavement this year, Iowa reduced travel distances by wide margins, and in addition eliminated railroad grade crossings in large numbers, not only through under passes but also through elimination of crossings by straightening out road kinks.

In one instance Iowa shortened the distance between two towns by 3.15 miles, eliminated seven right angle turns and avoided the four railroad crossings of the old route.

These are only a few of the many items that make paving programs of inestimable value to a community. Professor T. R. Agg of Iowa State College has carefully calculated that where a highway carries 1,000 tons of vehicles a day, less than 1,000 cars, every foot of travel distance saved will justify an expenditure of $60 to eliminate that foot.

Comprehensive planning and pavement building go hand in hand. In placing pavement of a permanent character it is clearly desirable that that pavement be located where it will do the most good. Modern roadbuilders, with every respect for the decision of their forefathers, do not hesitate to obtain new rights-of-way.

In Minnesota Commissioner C. M. Babcock has made it one of his guiding principles to cut down right angle curves, to eliminate railway crossings, to shorten routes, always looking forward to benefit the greatest number of highway users.

Christmas Shopping

CHRISTMAS holidays are just around the corner and the number of shopping days to prepare for this event has dwindled until they can be measured in a few hours.

It behooves every shopper to "get busy." Stocks are more complete, there is more time to examine goods and reduce errors to a minimum, and the sales force can give you more attention if you do your shopping now and do not wait until the proverbial eleventh hour.

He who shops late has himself to blame. Stores now give you every possible advantage. Some have wonderful cash prices, others have alluring credit terms, still others permit you to select and lay away your goods upon payment of a small deposit and further payments thereafter. In many ways merchants are seeking to stimulate Christmas trading and to avoid the last minute rush.

Many shoppers from out of town are coming to Brainerd and taking advantage of the many fine bargains offered by the stores. Windows are beautifully arranged, so that even after store hours the display windows carry their message.

The street lighting of Brainerd has gained favorable comment and its attractiveness has been enhanced by the spruce garlands interwoven and contributed by local merchants to add to the visible holiday appearance of the city.

Buy your Christmas presents early. Make out your shopping lists. Study your newspaper advertising and you will reduce your shopping perplexities to a minimum least wearing on your nerves.

Nearing Half Century

THE BRAINERD DISPATCH, as the weekly published by the Brainerd Dispatch Company is known, entered its 50th year of publication this week. The first issues were four-page, nine column editions.

The Dispatch was organized as a weekly in December, 1881, by Frank Meist and Joe Riggs, the latter now being an employee of the Minneapolis Journal. The weekly edition of the Dispatch was then published on Front street. During the next two years the Dispatch changed hands three times, C. B. Sleeper, Fred Puhler and A. E. Penell being respective owners.

F. W. Wieland purchased the Dispatch from Mrs. Penell and published his first edition on August 3, 1883. At that time he transferred a half interest to N. H. Ingersoll, now deceased.

Mr. Wieland has been editor and publisher over 47 years and previous to that time was employed in the mechanical department on the same paper.

American Jobs for Americans

"KEEP American jobs safe for Americans."

"Shut the gates to immigration and thus help solve the unemployment problem."

This is the tenor of editorial comment supporting the proposal of Senator Reed, Republican, of Pennsylvania, to suspend all quota immigration, as well as that from the Philippine Islands, for two years, as quoted in the Literary Digest.

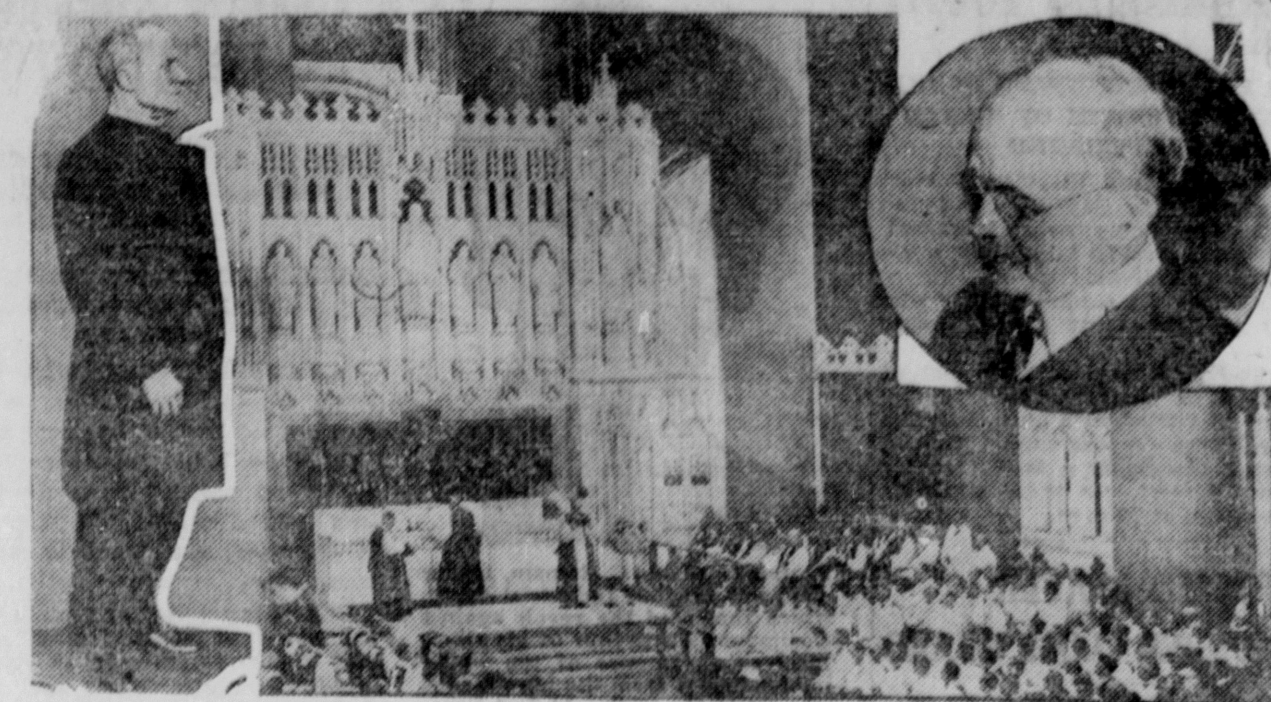

THOUGH women have been eligible to jury service since 1921 in Minnesota, four counties of the state still do not list them for call, the Minnesota League of Women Voters has disclosed. The counties are Clearwater, Yellow Medicine, Rock and Houston.

PROBABLY one of the best methods devised to aid in relieving unemployment is the "Buy Now" movement instituted and given much publicity. Breaking of a "buyers' strike" will do much to stimulate the factories producing goods.

GOVERNOR DAN MOODY of Texas says his Texas Rangers could rid Chicago of its gangsters in short order. His offer has stirred Chicago to repartee.

Former Judge Ben B. Lindsey (right) pleaded not guilty in a New York City court to disturbing the peace in the Cathedral of St. John the Divine (center) from which he was tossed with considerable violence when he interrupted the service to protest against Bishop William T. Manning's attack on his theory of companionship marriage. Much as the Bishop may dislike attending court, he will be there, for Arthur Garfield Hays, attorney for ex-Judge Lindsey, served him with a subpoena to appear as a witness at the adjourned case.

Raise Funds for Jobless

Grover A. Whalen (right), chairman of the Citizens Committee of the Salvation Army, and Sayre M. Ramsdell of Philco discuss ways and means of swelling the Salvation Army Radio Fund, which will be devoted to the relief of families of the unemployed throughout the country.

WELL over a million dollars will be raised for the relief of the unemployed by means of the Army-Navy charity football game on Saturday, December 13, Salvation Army officials estimate. In addition to the actual seat sales, for which 50,000 persons will pay from five to fifty dollars a seat, a nation-wide campaign for contributions will bring in hundreds of thousands of additional dollars, largely from the thirty million fans who are expected to listen in.

The game will be broadcast over every chain station of the National and the Columbia Broadcasting systems, with Graham McNamee, Ted Husing and Bill Munday at the microphones. Philco is sponsoring the broadcast, and has turned over the largest sum ever paid for a broadcast to the Salvation Army. As a further contribution, Philco is distributing thousands of "broadcast tickets," which provide listeners to the game an opportunity to contribute a dollar apiece to the Salvation Army Radio Fund. The tickets are being distributed through the 15,000 Philco radio merchants in every city of the United States. Every dollar raised goes direct to the Salvation Army Radio Fund.

Fifteen hundred radio sets have also been donated to swell the fund. The sets will be sold to the highest bidder in each community, with the entire sales price going to the relief of the unemployed.

Confesses Defalcations Which May Total Sum of Eight Million Dollars

Los Angeles, Dec. 12.—(U.P.)—Defalcations which "may total $8,000,000" were confessed by Gilbert H. Beesemyer, secretary and general manager of the Guaranty Building and Loan Association, in a statement made to directors of the organization. It was announced today by Judge Harlan F. Palmer, Hollywood publisher, who was called in as an advisor to directors of the association.

His confession came after hours of questioning. "Mr. Beesemyer has confessed to peculations that will probably run into $8,000,000," Judge Palmer said. "Just what he did with the vast amount we do not yet know. A written confession is now being prepared by Mr. Beesemyer."

The Guaranty Building and Loan Association was not the only organization which has suffered through the peculations, Beesemyer confessed. "I further state," he said, "that I falsified the records of the North American Bond and Mortgage Company and the Guaranty Holding Corporation, and misappropriated large sums of money belonging to said institutions for my personal use."

Beesemyer was arrested shortly after he made the confession and was lodged in the county jail on a grand theft charge. A complaint will be issued against him this morning, officers said.

Beesemyer is 45 years of age and married. He has been secretary and general manager of the organization since 1921.

Fifteen hundred radio sets have also been donated to swell the fund. The sets will be sold to the highest bidder in each community, with the entire sales price going to the relief of the unemployed.

Confesses Defalcations Which May Total Sum of Eight Million Dollars

Los Angeles, Dec. 12.—(U.P.)—Defalcations which "may total $8,000,000" were confessed by Gilbert H. Beesemyer, secretary and general manager of the Guaranty Building and Loan Association, in a statement made to directors of the organization, it was announced today by Judge Harlan F. Palmer, Hollywood publisher, who was called in as an advisor to directors of the association.

His confession came after hours of questioning.

"Mr. Beesemyer has confessed to peculations that will probably run into $8,000,000," Judge Palmer said. "Just what he did with the vast amount we do not yet know. A written confession is now being prepared by Mr. Beesemyer."

The Guaranty Building and Loan Association was not the only organization which has suffered through the peculations, Beesemyer confessed.

"I further state," he said, "that I falsified the records of the North American Bond and Mortgage Company and the Guaranty Holding Corporation, and misappropriated large sums of money belonging to said institutions for my personal use."

Beesemyer was arrested shortly after he made the confession and was lodged in the county jail on a grand theft charge. A complaint will be issued against him this morning, officers said.

Beesemyer is 45 years of age and married. He has been secretary and general manager of the organization since 1921.

STECKER'S 56 YARD RUN GIVES ARMY 6-0 WIN OVER NAVY

SCORE MADE BY ARMY IN THE LAST QUARTER

THRILLING GAME, FOR THREE PERIODS THEY PLAYED EVEN IN STRUGGLE

BROSHOUS FAILED TO SCORE EXTRA POINT, KICK WENT WILD

By L. S. CAMERON
(United Press Sports Editor)

Yankee Stadium, New York, Dec. 13.—A fifty-six yard run by Stecker in the final period today gave the Army a 6 to 0 victory over the Navy.

This thirty-first game between the two service academies—played before 78,000 persons and the receipts of which go to the unemployment relief fund—was a thrilling affair. For three periods they played even.

The Army's charging attack would carry well into the Navy territory, then Navy would tighten. Not until the final period when Stecker's plunging and end-skirting had been mainly responsible for Army's long gains, cut loose for his brilliant run, was there much of an advantage.

Broshous, whose kick failed in the Notre Dame game and gave the South Benders the victory, went in to score the extra point but his kick went wild.

Navy made many spirited attacks but could not penetrate far into the Army's territory.

STRIBLING IN UNPOPULAR WIN OVER GRIFFITHS

SIX MATCHES CLOSED FOR CHARITY BOXING SHOW AT CHICAGO

Chicago, Dec. 13.—(U.P.)—Six matches have been closed for the charity boxing show to be staged at Chicago Coliseum, Dec. 19, by the Democratic party of Cook county.

All matches will be for six rounds and Matchmaker Jim Mullen has asked the athletic board's permission to stage a bill of 60 scheduled rounds. Fifty per cent of the gross receipts will be given to the democratic organization to buy Christmas dinners for needy families.

Matches already closed include: Paul Pantaleo, Chicago, vs. George Neron, Greece; Charlie Retzlaff, Duluth, Minn., vs. Antonio Mata, Spain; Battling Bozo, Hot Springs, Ark., vs. Johnny Freeman, Buffalo, N. Y.; Tony Cancelli, Florida, vs. Baxter Calmes, Chicago; Ted Ross, Chicago, vs. Edgar Norman, Sweden; and Martin Lewandowski, former national amateur light heavyweight champion, vs. Nick Taft, Chicago.

BAG 30,000 DEER IN SHORT SEASON

62,000 HUNTERS TAKE OUT LICENSES; NEARLY ONE-THIRD DEER POPULATION SHOT

More than 30,000 deer were killed during the brief Minnesota hunting season, Robert B. Forrest of the state department of game and fish, estimated today, in a United Press dispatch from St. Paul.

The total, which composed nearly one-third of the deer population in the state, was the largest ever recorded. The previous record of 27,335 deer was made two years ago.

Approximately 62,000 hunting licenses were issued, which indicated that about one out of every two hunters bagged a deer.

Dr. Theodorus Surber, superintendent of game and fish propagation, said the deer increased about 50 per cent each year and the 1932 population would be larger than that this year prior to the killings. Dr. Surber said the moose population of the state had increased to 5,000 animals and that the legislature could grant a moose hunting season next year.

B. H. S. LOSES TO WADENA, 17-10

LOCALS DROP FIRST OUT OF CITY GAME; PEQUOT AND BENIDJI HERE SOON

Handicapped by the small floor conditions, Brainerd high school lost its first cage game of the season at Wadena last night to the Wadena high school by the score of 17 to 10.

Brainerd led 3 to 1 at the close of the first quarter, was tied 6 to 6 at the half and was at the low end of the score at the close of the third quarter, 15 to 9.

One substitution was made by Brainerd, Peterson going in for Franks at center.

Next week the varsity plays two games at home and one away. Tuesday night's game with Pequot will be a warm-up in preparation for the first home game of the season Friday evening with Benidji. The second team will journey to Pine River on Thursday evening.

The line-ups last evening:
Brainerd—Foster, rf; Bob Wygle, lf; Franks, c; White, lg; Marshall, rg; sub, Patterson, c.
Wadena—Zosell, lf; Anderson, rf; Eschew, c; Benson, lg; Oland, rg.

HAS ADDED NEW COMPLICATIONS TO CHAMPIONSHIP

MUDDLES EXISTING SINCE GENE TUNNEY DISCARDED CROWN TWO YEARS AGO

STRIBLING ALLOWED GRIFFITHS TO SET PACE FOR FIRST EIGHT ROUNDS

By DIXON STEWART
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Chicago, Dec. 13.—Addition of W. L. (Young) Stribling to the ranks of recognized world heavyweight title claimants added new complications today to the championship muddles which have existed since Gene Tunney discarded the crown two years ago.

Stribling's claim to the title was based on an unpopular 10-round decision over Tuffy Griffiths at Chicago stadium last night. The "charity" bout (25 per cent of the profits going to the Illinois unemployment commission) was recognized by the National Boxing Association as a championship test.

Max Schmeling of Germany who won the title in the New York State Athletic Commission's competition, technically forfeited his claim, under N. B. A. and New York rules because of failure to defend his crown within the required six-month limit since he won it on a foul in his bout with Jack Sharkey, June 12.

With Stribling now recognized by the N. B. A., Schmeling still favored by the New York board and Chairman Muldoon of the Tunney-Muldoon trophy commission prejudiced toward Jack Sharkey, a new round-robin may be necessary before a unanimous agreement is reached on the championship.

Like Schmeling, Stribling proved disappointing in winning his claim to the title. Referee Ed Purdy, Judge Ed Kline and Judge Wm. A. Battie were unanimous in selection of Stribling as winner over Griffiths, but the decision was unpopular with the 15,572 spectators who paid $88,297.16 to witness the bout.

Stribling, a 2 to 1 betting favorite, reverted to cautious tactics and disappointed followers who had expected him to duplicate his sensational knockouts over Otto Von Porat and Phil Scott.

The Georgian allowed Griffiths to set the pace for the first eight rounds and it was only in the final two stanzas that he displayed anything like championship ability. His superior strength, despite Griffiths' 186 to 184 3-4 pound weight pull, enabled Stribling to score in the clinches, but he was outpointed in five of the ten rounds with two others even.

BATTALINO DEFEATS KID CHOCOLATE

By HENRY McLEMORE
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

New York, Dec. 13.—The fact that Bat Battalino of Hartford, Conn., was still featherweight champion of the world today offered positive proof that an ordinary fighter in great condition will, nine times out of ten, whip a superior fighter who is in poor physical shape.

It was Battalino's superb condition and nothing more that carried him to a 15-round decision over Kid Chocolate of Cuba in Madison Square Garden last night.

In the early rounds of the fight, when the Cuban was still fresh, he was far superior to the champion. In the first round when his legs and arms were obeying his commands, Chocolate all but knocked Battalino out.

As the fight moved on, however, Chocolate, superb boxer that he is, was unable to stem the champion's

HAIL, THE CONQUERORS COME!

What's this, a flashback to the Armistice Day celebration? Wrong! It is merely a sample of the enthusiasm of thousands of football fans that expressed itself in roars of greeting and showers of ticker tape as Knute Rockne and his men of steel returned from California where the Notre Dame team defeated Southern California. The scene is La Salle St., Chicago, and shows the Notre Dame football stars in cars a few minutes after they arrived from the coast Wednesday morning.

Dr. Lillian M. Gilbreth, chief of the women's division of President Hoover's Emergency Employment Committee, has enumerated six practical and simple ways in which women can help solve the unemployment problem. Among other things she tells women to "spruce up" themselves, their families and their homes, but to spend wisely.

U. S. Ace Killed In China Plane Crash

Paul Baer, of Fort Wayne, Ind., well-known pilot, with a woman passenger, was killed when their plane crashed on the Whangpo River, near Shanghai, China. Five other passengers were seriously injured in the wreck. This was said to be the first crack-up of an air mail plane in China. Baer was a ranking American ace during the World War.

Color in Camels

Camels seem to be singularly free from the color variations that affect so many domesticated animals—melanism and albinism. Black camels, presumably melanics, are rare. A breed called Nubian camel is of a very light shade. This seems to be a regular color strain, however, and not a case of albinism.

tireless drive. The Cuban bogged badly after the sixth round and Battalino, realizing that his foe's punches were but gestures, slapped and pounded his way to an easy decision.

SACRIFICE FLY IN BASEBALL IS ABOLISHED

SO DECREED AT YESTERDAY'S MEETING OF MAJOR LEAGUES RULES COMMITTEE

SEVERAL OTHER IMPORTANT ALTERATIONS ALSO MADE AT CONFERENCE

New York, Dec. 13.—(U.P.)—The sacrifice fly in baseball has been abolished. Its abolition was decreed at yesterday's meeting of the rules committee, which also made several other important alterations in the rules.

A batted ball that hops off the field into the stands hereafter will be a two-base hit in all parks instead of a home run as in some parks. Umpires shall judge home runs hit out of the park from the point at which they pass the foul poles rather than where the ball is last seen.

These changes were decided upon after an all day session of the committee, which is composed of K. M. Landis, baseball commissioner; John A. Heydler, National League president; Ernest S. Barnard, American League president; Eddie Collins, Clark Griffith, Sam Breadon, William Veeck, Tom Connolly, Bob Emslie, W. G. Brambau and John B. Foster.

NEAR RIOT NEAR FRENCH CONSULATE

New York, Dec. 13.—(U.P.)—A scheduled communist demonstration in front of the French consulate against "imperialism" and "capitalism" turned into a brisk scuffle bordering on a riot today when the 300 demonstrators mingled with Christmas shoppers along Fifth avenue.

The demonstration centered in front of the Union League club on 39th street, near the consulate, where a number of plain clothes and uniformed police scattered the communists. Police used their billys generously.

Hard Times for Prophets

By HARDIN BURNLEY

FISTIANA'S RECENT UPSET EPIDEMIC!...

CHOCOLATE - LA BARBA -

4 TO 1 FAVORITE BEATEN --

SINGER - CANZONERI -

3 TO 1 FAVORITE BEATEN --

MCLARNIN - PETROLLE -

8 TO 1 FAVORITE BEATEN!

STARTING with Al Singer's acquisition of the lightweight championship last Summer via a quick K. O. of Sammy Mandell, the gamboleering "short end" players have been cleaning up on an amazing series of New York City ring upsets. Just take these high spots and conservative odds quotations on three recent surprises at Madison Square Garden. They laid 5-to-1 that Chocolate would beat La Barba; it was as high as 7 and 8 to 1 that Singer would retain his title against Canzoneri; and the boxing bookies went to madhouse extremes in quoting 5, 6, 7 and 8 to 1 that McLarnin would whip Petrolle. In each instance, the so-called short end collected heavy sugar. Suppose you take a medium figure and visualize only a 4-to-1 short end parlay on that trio of recent upsets with $10 your original stake. You'd have won $40 in addition to your tenner on La Barba. Then that $50 on Canzoneri would have grossed $250. When you shot the works on Petrolle, you'd wind up with $1,250, including your original saw-buck! No wonder the crafty layers are grumbling about laying no more than 2 1/2 to one on any future fight. However, despite the wail, comparatively few thousands were played on these bouts and it is doubtful that any important parlays were put over. Heavy odds were quoted to lure some bets, the favorite in each case looking so strong that there was little inclination to bet against him. Those who play "short ends" habitually were in clover, of course, but money is rather tight, and so the play was not big or widespread. Legend is springing up in the wake of these ring upsets and Gotham's Cauliflower Alley echoes with the story that "hunch" players have been picking the winners from the picture that appears on the right of every Madison Square Garden poster! Singer, La Barba, Canzoneri and Petrolle all appeared in half-tone on the upper right of such placards in these times that are so hard for fistie prophets and other appeasance sellers. Nebraska's State Park

System Worth $478,132

Hastings, Neb.—Nebraska's system of public parks and playgrounds, being developed under the direction of the new Nebraska game, forestation and parks commission, has reached a total value of $478,132.70, a recent inventory shows. The parks were either purchased through legislative appropriations or were presented to the state.

Berlin Car Riders Get More Absent Minded

Berlin.—Berlin tramcar and subway riders are more absent minded this year than in 1929, if the lost property office of the transportation company is to be believed. Last year 103,281 objects were left in the cars. This year there were 7,000 more articles left in September than during all of 1929.

Theft of Beehive
Gives Court Puzzle

Lamar, Colo.—Justice of the Peace Earle Garving had a knotty problem in deciding the ownership of a hive of bees. A complaint was made that Al Downard stole a bee hive. It seems Justice Garving could not decide whether the bees went to Downard's place on their own accord or were led.

SIX MATCHES CLOSED FOR CHARITY BOXING SHOW AT CHICAGO

Chicago, Dec. 13.—(U.P.)—Six matches have been closed for the charity boxing show to be staged at Chicago Coliseum, Dec. 19, by the Democratic party of Cook county.

All matches will be for six rounds and Matchmaker Jim Mullon has asked the athletic board's permission to stage a bill of 60 scheduled rounds. Fifty per cent of the gross receipts will be given to the democratic organization to buy Christmas dinners for needy families.

Matches already closed include: Paul Pantaleo, Chicago, vs. George Neron, Greece; Charlie Retziak, Duluth, Minn., vs. Antonio Mata, Spain; Battling Bozo, Hot Springs, Ark., vs. Johnny Freeman, Buffalo, N. Y.; Tony Canela, Florida, vs. Baxter Calmes, Chicago; Ted Ross, Chicago, vs. Edgar Norman, Sweden; and Martin Lewandowski, former national amateur light heavyweight champion, vs. Nick Taft, Chicago.

BAG 30,000 DEER IN SHORT SEASON

62,000 HUNTERS TAKE OUT LICENSES; NEARLY ONE-THIRD DEER POPULATION SHOT

More than 30,000 deer were killed during the brief Minnesota hunting season, Robert B. Forrest of the state department of game and fish, estimated today, in a United Press dispatch from St. Paul.

The total, which composed nearly one-third of the deer population in the state, was the largest ever recorded. The previous record of 27,335 deer was made two years ago.

Approximately 62,000 hunting licenses were issued, which indicated that about one out of every two hunters bagged a deer.

Dr. Thaddeus Surber, superintendent of game and fish propagation, said the deer increased about 50 per cent each year and the 1932 population would be larger than that this year prior to the killings. Dr. Surber said the moose population of the state had increased to 5,000 animals and that the legislature could grant a moose hunting season next year.

B. H. S. LOSES TO WADENA, 17-10

LICALS DROP FIRST OUT OF CITY GAME; PEQUOT AND BEMIDJI HERE SOON

Handicapped by the small floor conditions, Brainerd high school lost its first cage game of the season at Wadena last night to the Wadena high school by the score of 17 to 10.

Brainerd led 3 to 1 at the close of the first quarter, was tied 6 to 6 at the half and was at the low end of the score at the close of the third quarter, 15 to 9.

One substitution was made by Brainerd, Peterson going in for Franks at center.

Next week the varsity plays two games at home and one away. Tuesday night's game with Pequot will be a warm-up in preparation for the first big home game of the season Friday evening with Bemidji. The second team will journey to Pine River on Thursday evening.

The line-ups last evening: Brainerd—Foster, rf; Bob Wygle, lf; Franks, c; White, lg; Marshall, rg; sub, Patterson, c.

Wadena—Zosell, lf; Anderson, rf; Eschew, c; Benson, lg; Oland, rg.

HAS ADDED NEW COMPLICATIONS TO CHAMPIONSHIP

MUDDLES EXISTING SINCE GENE TUNNEY DISCARDED CROWN TWO YEARS AGO

STIBLING ALLOWED GRIFFITHS TO SET PACE FOR FIRST EIGHT ROUNDS

By DIXON STEWART
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Chicago, Dec. 13.—Addition of W. L. (Young) Stibling to the ranks of recognized world heavyweight title claimants added new complications today to the championship muddles which have existed since Gene Tunney discarded the crown two years ago.

Stibling's claim to the title was based on an unpopular 10-round decision over Tuffy Griffiths at Chicago stadium last night. The "charity" bout (25 per cent of the profits going to the Illinois unemployment commission) was recognized by the National Boxing Association as a championship test.

Max Schmeling of Germany who won the title in the New York State Athletic Commission's competition, technically forfeited his claim, under N. B. A. and New York rules because of failure to defend his crown within the required six-month limit since he won it on a foul in his bout with Jack Sharkey, June 12.

With Stibling now recognized by the N. B. A., Schmeling still favored by the New York board and Chairman Muldoon of the Tunney-Muldoon trophy commission prejudiced toward Jack Sharkey, a new round-robin may be necessary before a unanimous agreement is reached on the championship.

Like Schmeling, Stibling proved disappointing in winning his claim to the title. Referee Ed Purdy, Judge Ed Kline and Judge Wm. A. Battle were unanimous in selection of Stibling as winner over Griffiths, but the decision was unpopular with the 15,572 spectators who paid $88,297.16 to witness the bout.

Stibling, a 2 to 1 betting favorite, reverted to cautious tactics and disappointed followers who had expected him to duplicate his sensational knockouts over Otto Von Porat and Phil Scott.

The Georgian allowed Griffiths to set the pace for the first eight rounds and it was only in the final two stanzas that he displayed anything like championship ability. His superior strength, despite Griffiths' 186 to 184 3-4 pound weight pull, enabled Stibling to score in the clinches, but he was outpointed in five of the ten rounds with two others even.

BATTALINO DEFEATS KID CHOCOLATE

By HENRY McLEMORE
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

New York, Dec. 13.—The fact that Battalino of Hartford, Conn., was still featherweight champion of the world today offered positive proof that an ordinary fighter in great condition will, nine times out of ten, whip a superior fighter who is in poor physical shape.

It was Battalino's superb condition and nothing more that carried him to a 15-round decision over Kid Chocolate of Cuba in Madison Square Garden last night.

In the early rounds of the fight, when the Cuban was still fresh, he was far superior to the champion. In the first round when his legs and arms were obeying his commands, Chocolate all but knocked Battalino out.

As the fight moved on, however, Chocolate, superb boxer that he is, was unable to stem the champion's

Spend Wisely and Aid Unemployed

Dr. Lillian M. Gilbreth, chief of the women's division of President Hoover's Emergency Employment Committee, has enumerated six practical and simple ways in which women can help solve the unemployment problem. Among other things she tells women to "spruce up" themselves, their families and their homes, but to spend wisely.

C. S. Ace Killed In China Plane Crash

Paul Baer, of Fort Wayne, Ind., well-known pilot, with a woman passenger, was killed when their plane crashed on the Whangpo River, near Shanghai, China. Five other passengers were seriously injured in the wreck. This was said to be the first crack-up of an airplane in China. Baer was a ranking American ace during the World War.

Color in Camels

Camels seem to be singularly free from the color variations that affect so many domesticated animals—melanism and albinism. Black camels, presumably melanics, are rare. A breed called Nubian camel is of a very light shade. This seems to be a regular color strain, however, and not a case of albinism.

We accuse savages of worshipping only the bad spirit or devil. Though they may distinguish both a good and a bad, they regard only that which they fear, worship the devil only. We, too, are savages in this, doing precisely the same thing.—Thoreau.

tireless drive. The Cuban bogged badly after the sixth round and Battalino, realizing that his foe's punches were but gestures, slapped and pounded his way to an easy decision.

SACRIFICE FLY IN BASEBALL IS ABOLISHED

SO DECREED AT YESTERDAY'S MEETING OF MAJOR LEAGUES RULES COMMITTEE

SEVERAL OTHER IMPORTANT ALTERATIONS ALSO MADE AT CONFERENCE

New York, Dec. 13.—(U.P.)—The sacrifice fly in baseball has been abolished. Its abolition was decreed at yesterday's meeting of the rules committee, which also made several other important alterations in the rules.

A batted ball that hops off the field into the stands hereafter will be a two-base hit in all parks instead of a home run as in some parks. Umpires shall judge home runs hit out of the park from the point at which they pass the foul poles rather than where the ball is last seen.

These changes were decided upon after an all day session of the committee, which is composed of K. M. Landis, baseball commissioner; John A. Heydler, National League president; Ernest S. Barnard, American League president; Eddie Collins, Clark Griffith, Sam Bredon, William Veck, Tom Connolly, Bob Emslie, W. G. Brambau and John B. Foster.

NEAR RIOT NEAR FRENCH CONSULATE

New York, Dec. 13.—(U.P.)—A scheduled communist demonstration in front of the French consulate against "imperialism" and "capitalism" turned into a brisk scuffle bordering on a riot today when the 300 demonstrators mingled with Christmas shoppers along Fifth avenue.

of the Union League club on 39th street, near the consulate, where a number of plain clothes and uniformed police scattered the communists. Police used their billys generously.

EINSTEIN IS BEWILDERED

Professor Albert Einstein, the world's foremost mathematician, was plainly bewildered when surrounded by a group of newspaper men and photographers upon his arrival in New York, aboard the S. S. Belgenland. He fled to his stateroom as soon as he could escape his questioners.

FISTIANA'S RECENT UPSET EPIDEMIC!...

CHOCOLATE - LA BARBA --
4 TO 1 FAVORITE BEATEN --
SINGER - CANZONERI --
3 TO 1 FAVORITE BEATEN --
McLARNIN - PETROLLE --
8 TO 1 FAVORITE BEATEN!

STARTING with Al Singer's acquisition of the lightweight championship last Summer via a quick K. O. of Sammy Mandell, the gamboling "short end" players have been cleaning up on an amazing series of New York City ring upsets. Just take these high spots and conservative quotations on three recent surprises at Madison Square Garden. They laid 5-to-1 that Chocolate would beat La Barba; it was as high as 7 and 8 to 1 that Singer would retain his title against Canzoneri; and the boxing bookies went to madhouse extremes in quoting 5, 6, 7 and 8 to 1 that McLarnin would whip Petrolle. In each instance, the so-called short end collected heavy sugar.

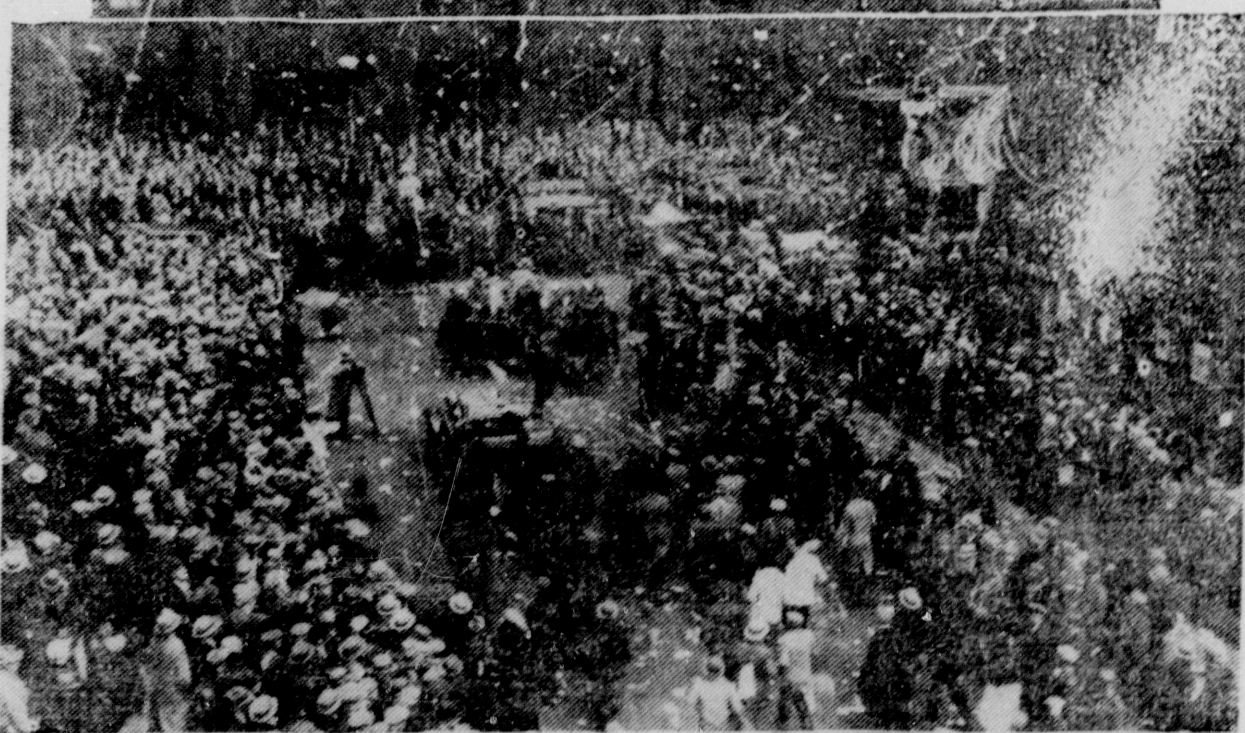

Suppose you take a medium figure and visualize only a 4-to-1 short end parlay on that trio of recent upsets with $10 your original stake. You'd have won $40 in addition to your tenner on La Barba. Then that $50 on Canzoneri would have grossed $250. When you shot the works on Petrolle, you'd wind up with $1,250, including your original saw-buck!

No wonder the crafty layers are grumbling about laying no more than 2 1/2 to one on any future fight. However, despite the wail, comparatively few thousands were played on these bouts and it is doubtful that any important parlays were put over. Heavy odds were quoted to lure some bets, the favorite in each case looking so strong that there was little inclination to bet against him. Those who play "short ends" habitually were in clover, of course, but money is rather tight, and so the play was not big or widespread.

Legend is springing up in the wake of these ring upsets and Gotham's Cauliflower Alley echoes with the story that "hunch" players have been picking the winners from the picture that appears on the right of every Madison Square Garden poster! Singer, La Barba, Canzoneri and Petrolle all appeared in half-tone on the upper right of such placards in these times that are so hard for fistic prophets and other applesauce sellers.

HAIL, THE CONQUERORS COME!

What's this, a flashback to the Armistice Day celebration? Wrong! It is merely a sample of the enthusiasm of thousands of football fans that expressed itself in roars of greeting and showers of ticker tape as Knute Rockne and his men of steel returned from California where the Notre Dame team defeated Southern California. The scene is La Salle St., Chicago, and shows the Notre Dame football stars in cars a few minutes after they arrived from the coast Wednesday morning.

WEST OAK LAWN

The Willing Oak Leaves club met at the home of Mrs. Verner Anderson of Northeast Brainerd a former member. It was voted at this meeting to make three Christmas baskets to be given to our county nurse for needy families. We have been much pleased with the cooperation of all members in filling these baskets. Miss Walz, our nurse, has done her work well in placing the baskets where needed.

Everybody is pleased to have this spring-like weather. Here's hoping it lasts until Christmas.

Caroline Seadlund spent the week end at her home in Ironton.

The dance given at the Oak Lawn town hall was very well attended, $33.30 was taken in with $13.50 expenses, -19.50 was cleared. Miss Seadlund the teacher wishes to thank each and every one for their cooperation in making everything a success.

The children are real busy these days getting ready for their Christmas program which will be on Friday evening, Dec. 19. Everybody welcome.

STATE PASTORS' MEETING IN ST. PAUL

Conference Participated in By Ministers From Nineteen Churches

Pastors of this community have been invited to join with ministers from all other communities of the state in a Minnesota State Pastors' Conference in St. Paul January, 12, 13 and 14, which will bring together for the first time in the history of Minnesota pastors from nineteen leading evangelical denominations to consider common problems and advance the cause of the church.

Invitations for the conference have gone out to 2,064 ministers in the participating denominations, the volunteer committee reported, and hundreds of pastors are expected to gather for the meetings.

The conference will be unique in the annals of the state, not only for the numbers that will assemble, but because it will bring together pastors of so many denominations. The denominations participating in it will include African Methodist Episcopal, American Lutheran, Augustana Lutheran, Baptist, Congregational, Disciples of Christ, Evangelical, Evangelical Synod of North America, Friends, Lutheran Free Church, Methodist Episcopal, Norwegian Lutheran, Presbyterian, Protestant Episcopal, Swedish Baptist, Swedish Evangelical Free Church, Swedish Mission Covenant, United Brethren, and United Lutheran.

Other organizations, sponsoring the conference, include the Duluth Council of Churches, Minneapolis Church Federation, Minnesota Council of Religious Education, Minnesota Federation of Churches, Ramsey County Sunday School Association, and the St. Paul Ministers' Council.

The theme chosen for the conference is "The Abiding Church." Various phases of the church and its work will be discussed by leaders who are nationally known, and the sessions are expected not only to promote better understanding and good fellowship among pastors of the various denominations, but to give much light on their common problems and new enthusiasm for their task.

WEST OAK LAWN

The Willing Oak Leaves club met at the home of Mrs. Verner Anderson of Northeast Brainerd a former member. It was voted at this meeting to make three Christmas baskets to be given to our county nurse for needy families. We have been much pleased with the cooperation of all members in filling these baskets. Miss Walz, our nurse, has done her work well in placing the baskets where needed.

Everybody is pleased to have this spring-like weather. Here's hoping it lasts until Christmas.
Caroline Seadlund spent the week end at her home in Infronton.

The dance given at the Oak Lawn town hall was very well attended, $23.30 was taken in with $13.50 expenses, -19.50 was cleared. Miss Seadlund the teacher wishes to thank each and every one for their cooperation in making everything a success.

The children are real busy these days getting ready for their Christmas program which will be on Friday evening, Dec. 19. Everybody welcome.

We are sorry to know that the Edw. Nelson children have been on the sick list. We are glad that they are much better at this writing.

STATE PASTORS' MEETING IN ST. PAUL

Conference Participated in By Ministers From Nineteen Churches

Pastors of this community have been invited to join with ministers from all other communities of the state in a Minnesota State Pastors' Conference in St. Paul January, 12, 13 and 14, which will bring together for the first time in the history of Minnesota pastors from nineteen leading evangelical denominations to consider common problems and advance the cause of the church.

Invitations for the conference have gone out to 2,064 ministers in the participating denominations, the volunteer committee reported, and hundreds of pastors are expected to gather for the meetings.

The conference will be unique in the annals of the state, not only for the numbers that will assemble, but because it will bring together pastors of so many denominations. The denominations participating in it will include African Methodist Episcopal, American Lutheran, Augustana Lutheran, Baptist, Congregational, Disciples of Christ, Evangelical, Evangelical Synod of North America, Friends, Lutheran Free Church, Methodist Episcopal, Norwegian Lutheran, Presbyterian, Protestant Episcopal, Swedish Baptist, Swedish Evangelical Free Church, Swedish Mission Covenant, United Brethren, and United Lutheran.

Other organizations, sponsoring the conference, include the Duluth Council of Churches, Minneapolis Church Federation, Minnesota Council of Religious Education, Minnesota Federation of Churches, Ramsey County Sunday School Association, and the St. Paul Ministers' Council.

The theme chosen for the conference is "The Abiding Church." Various phases of the church and its work will be discussed by leaders who are nationally known, and the sessions are expected not only to promote better understanding and good fellowship among pastors of the various denominations, but to give much light on their common problems and new enthusiasm for their task.

CAMP TO SERVE ONE REGIMENT JUNE 14

Government Has Already Spent $450,000 at Camp Ripley, to Further Expend $350,000

REPLACES LAKE CITY CAMP

Enlargement of Camp Site Will Provide Headquarters for Five Regimental Areas

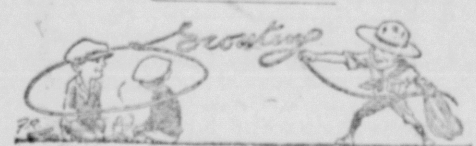

Camp Ripley the new national guard camp near Little Falls will officially open its training quarters on June 14, 1937, Lieut. Col. J. E. Nelson, assistant adjutant general, today announced at St. Paul.

The new camp replaces one at Lake City, which was given up at the end of the training period last summer.

The government has spent $450,000 on the site and is scheduled to make improvements and construct buildings which will bring the total investment to more than $800,000.

Col. Nelson said the 1936 construction program has been completed and the camp will be able to serve one regimental area. The officers added that further work will enlarge the camp site so it can serve as headquarters for five regimental areas.

The name Camp Ripley was taken from old Fort Ripley, which was an Indian outpost located near the present training camp. The old fort was named for General James W. Ripley, a distinguished officer of the war of 1812, and was abandoned by the government in 1872 when Indian troubles made the old fort useless. The old powder house still remains at the location and steps will be taken to preserve it.

Q. I understand that the Scout office is at St. Cloud and that Brainerd has no Scout office. Is this a fact?

A. Yes. A few years ago when Scouting spread over the country each city large enough to support a council had its own office and office staff. At that time Scouting was reaching the boys in fairly large centers only since the small communities could not support their own office and office staff. At city council. Then several communities closely related formed councils. Then a whole county, for it was thought that the county was the logical area to work in. Now, for the sake of economy several counties are organized into one council called the Area Council. The office and staff is usually placed in the larger city, although it is not necessarily there. The other cities and towns of the area do not contribute to St. Cloud (in this case) but to the area fund which is expended for the entire area. Scouting is throughout the area. The office is a branch office of the home office at New York and is maintained as such, not as an individual affair. Scouting is bigger than any one man, one city or one state. It is international in scope.

Q. It would be interesting to know how many Scouts there are in the United States. Can you give this information?

A. At the end of Oct. 1936 there were 605,782 Scouts and 226,488 adults in Scouting making a total of 832,270.

CONGREGATION MEETING

Important Meeting at Close of Morning Services of First Baptist Church

An important meeting of the members of the First Baptist church, will be held at the close of the service, tomorrow morning for the purpose of transacting certain important business matters connected with the work of the church.

The church choir and the girls choir will furnish the special music at the Sunday service.

In the morning Rev. Edgar A. Valiant will speak on "The Important Petition" and in the evening on "Man's Failure and God's Success."

ROTARY CLUB GIVES TO RELIEF FUND

Members Subscribe 100 Percent; Give $800, Pay $200 Per Month for Four Months

The Brainerd Community Relief Fund was advised today by letter as follows of the Rotary's club generous contribution to its cause.

Dr. J. A. Thaboe, President, Brainerd Community Relief Fund, Brainerd, Minn.

Dear Doctor:

It is my pleasure to advise you as follows:

The members of the Rotary club have subscribed collectively to the Community Relief Fund the sum of $800 to be paid at the rate of $200 per month for four months.

The Community Service Committee of this club is greatly pleased with the generous response made by each and every one of its 30 members.

If this is an indication of the spirit within the city there would seem to be little doubt as to the success of the undertaking.

Yours truly,
GEO. D. LABAR,
Chairman, Community Service Committee,

Brainerd Rotary Club.

MAKING HEADWAY IN LAKE LEVELS PLANS

25 From Brainerd Attend 10,000 Lakes Association Meeting Held in St. Paul

PASS RESOLUTION

Secretary of Minnesota Lake Levels Association Interviews Lt. Col. Willing

At a meeting in St. Paul yesterday the members of the 10,000 Lakes Association unanimously passed a resolution asking for immediate limitations of withdrawals from reservoirs from the secretary of war and legislation establishing higher minimum levels in the form of legislation in congress. About 25 men from Brainerd and vicinity attended the meeting, the Brainerd Chamber of Commerce and various resorts in this vicinity being members of the association.

Frank N. Russell, secretary of the Minnesota Lake Levels Association conferred with Lt. Col. Willing, district engineer of the War Department, in St. Paul in regard to the lake levels in this district.

Col. Willing said that he appreciated our situation up here but under the present laws it was necessary to make withdrawals to have the flow necessary in the lower Mississippi. He added that he would be pleased to make a survey of any legislation that would draw it up after being submitted.

A meeting of the board of directors of the Minnesota Lake Levels Association will be held in Brainerd within the next few days. The purpose of the meeting will be to adopt higher minimum levels and to send them to Congressman Knutson for immediate presentation to congress.

Among those from Brainerd and vicinity who attended the meeting of the 10,000 Lakes association were: C. N. Erickson, F. J. Lowey, W. H. Gemmell, Henry I. Cohen, R. R. Gould, E. G. Roth, B. L. Lagerquist, Frank N. Russell, W. V. Turcott, W. J. Lyonsia, Ben Wagner, A. E. Gustafson, James M. Quinn, Mr. and Mrs. M. V. Baker, Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Rutger, Sam and Max Rutger, Mrs. Edna Palmer, Arthur L. Roberts.

Governor-Elect Floyd B. Olson was one of the speakers and promised his support in gaining legislation beneficial to the lake country.

ROTARY CLUB GIVES TO RELIEF FUND

Members Subscribe 100 Percent; Give $800, Pay $200 Per Month for Four Months

The Brainerd Community Relief Fund was advised today by letter as follows of the Rotary's club generous contribution to its cause. Dr. J. A. Thabes, President, Brainerd Community Relief Fund, Brainerd, Minn.

Dear Doctor:

It is my pleasure to advise you as follows.

The members of the Rotary club have subscribed collectively to the Community Relief Fund the sum of $800 to be paid at the rate of $200 per month for four months.

The Community Service Committee of this club is greatly pleased with the generous response made by each and every one of its 30 members.

If this is an indication of the spirit within the city there would seem to be little doubt as to the success of the undertaking.

Yours truly,
GEO. D. LABAR,
Chairman, Community Service Committee.

MAKING HEADWAY IN LAKE LEVELS PLANS

25 From Brainerd Attend 10,000 Lakes Association Meeting Held in St. Paul

PASS RESOLUTION

Secretary of Minnesota Lake Levels Association Interviews Lt. Col. Willing

At a meeting in St. Paul yesterday the members of the 10,000 Lakes Association unanimously passed a resolution asking for immediate limitations of withdrawals from reservoirs from the secretary of war and legislation establishing higher minimum levels in the form of legislation in congress. About 25 men from Brainerd and vicinity attended the meeting, the Brainerd Chamber of Commerce and various resorts in this vicinity being members of the association.

Frank N. Russell, secretary of the Minnesota Lake Levels Association conferred with Lt. Col. Willing, district engineer of the War Department, in St. Paul in regard to the lake levels in this district.

Col. Willing said that he appreciated our situation up here but under the present laws it was necessary to make withdrawals to have the flow necessary in the lower Mississippi. He added that he would be pleased to make a survey of any legislation that would draw it up after being submitted.

A meeting of the board of directors of the Minnesota Lake Levels Association will be held in Brainerd within the next few days. The purpose of the meeting will be to adopt higher minimum levels and to send them to Congressmen Knutsen for immediate presentation to congress.

Among those from Brainerd and vicinity who attended the meeting of the 10,000 Lakes association were: C. N. Erickson, F. J. Lowey, W. H. E. G. Roth, B. L. Lagerquist, Frank N. Russell, W. V. Turcotte, W. J. Lyons, Ben Wagner, A. E. Gustafson, James M. Quinn, Mr. and Mrs. M. V. Baker, Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Rutger, Sam and Max Rutger, Mrs. Edna Palmer, Arthur L. Roberts.

Governor-Elect Floyd B. Olson was one of the speakers and promised his support in gaining legislation beneficial to the lake country.

"The Christmas Card Store"

GIRL UNAFRAID

BY GLADYS JOHNSON

ARDETH CARROLL works in a shop and is being wooed by Neil Burke. Her home life is far from pleasant. She lives with an aunt and a snooty girl cousin. Riding with Neil, Ardeeth is thrilled by the flattering gaze of a handsome man accompanying the wealthy Cecil Parker.

CHAPTER III.

"I don't care how sore you get at me if you leave him alone! I'd like to punch his nose! Looking at you—as if he was going to eat you up!"

Her heart gave a joyous and guilty leap. He had been interested, then! Even Neil had noticed—

"And you—trying to catch his eye—and then wanting me to believe you haven't seen him."

"I haven't!" she spoke severely to down the pounding of her heart. "I was just—just surprised because I knew a girl in that group. Jeanette Parker. She comes into the store all the time and I wait on her. That blonde girl that was beside her—beside him—that was Cecil Parker, Jeanette's sister. I've seen her picture in the Sunday society section heaps of times—"

But Neil was tortured with jealousy and he was not to be won over. He drove in glum silence and Ardeeth became busy with her own thoughts.

One Saturday afternoon three years ago she had driven down to Palo Alto with Neil to see a football game between the colleges.

A spectacular touchdown by Ken Gleason, Stanford senior, had been the outstanding event of the day.

Ardeeth had been carried away by the novelty and the excitement of it all. Jim Carroll's own daughter, she had delighted in the speed and dash. She had gone mad with the rooting section when it spelled out "Ken" Gleason's name. She had glowed with excited pride and had ended by making Neil violently jealous.

But it had gone deeper than hysteria with Ardeeth. Something about the young collegiate there had been which had called to her ardent imagination. She had watched him, her heart swelling with strange pride. Even now she remembered how he flung off his helmet and sailed into the game, brown hair streaming wildly about his head. The action had been somehow endearing.

The next day, she had hunted for a report of the game in the sporting section. There it was, under shrieking headlines. A picture of Ken Gleason, too. He was grinning and his handsome laughing eyes plunged into her own. She had cut out the picture and kept it hidden in her handkerchief box. She had dreamed of him in secret.

And now—to have him come riding toward her through the sunshines. . . . And the way he had looked at her. . . . perhaps he had seen her that day long ago.

He was older, of course. Twenty-four, perhaps. But there was the same careless charm about him, the same easy grin.

"Moaning about him this very minute! Go on, tell me you're not! Tell me I'm crazy!" Neil's black eyes were blazing. His mouth was tortured.

The wildness of him struck a little spark of fear in the girl, but she looked at him with cool insolence.

"I'm not moaning about him! But I fail to see how it concerns you! You don't own me or my thoughts! And you have no right!"

"For God's sake, don't keep saying that!" he got out between his teeth. "Driving me crazy, you are! You know I love you! You're my girl—you know you are!"

Her eyes blazed in her crimson face. "Stop the car! I'm going to get out! I didn't come out to quarrel!" Then something of the black misery in his eyes reached her. The natural sweetness of her nature reassured itself.

"Oh, let's not quarrel, Neil!" She placed a small hand over his own where it gripped the wheel. "It's such a beautiful day. Look at the ocean—isn't it blue?"

They followed a road south of the city. A road which swooped and dipped like the sea-gulls above them. A glorious day—white-crested combers rolling in on an ocean of purple-blue.

They left the car at the edge of the road and walked into the sand dunes. In a little sun-warmed trough between two mounds of sand they rested. Ardeeth pulled off the tight brown hat and the wind blew her hair in shining threads over her forehead.

Neil watched her with deep eyes. Suddenly he leaned forward, drew her hair back with a rough forefinger.

"Ardeeth—you love me, don't you?" His voice was hoarse with feeling. "Say you do, Ardeeth—I'm just crazy over you!"

But Neil was tortured with jealousy and he was not to be won over. He drove in glum silence and Ardeeth became busy with her own thoughts.

Her eyes blazed in her crimson face. "Stop the car! I'm going to get out! I didn't come out to quarrel!" Then something of the black misery in his eyes reached pool—Ugh! Someone had left the cap off the tube of toothpaste again and it had hardened to something akin to cement.

Discord. There was always discord on Monday morning.

"Bet! You've been wearing my stockings again!"

"Well, for gosh sakes, don't have a fit about it! I didn't have a clean pair yesterday, and I couldn't go barefoot, could I?"

"But it's the second time!" And they were for my new shoes!"

"Oh, don't be so stingy! When Mama lets you live here with us so cheap, the least you could do is loosen up now and then—"

"You girls stop your fightin' and get out here to your breakfast. Think I can wait all day—"

Out into the cluttered kitchen, where gray fog pressed against the grimy window panes. Torn oil-cloth on the table. Bacon, rapidly congealing to grease on a cold plate. The air blue with the acrid smell of burnt toast and the butter melted to a salty paste to make it spread.

Paul had forgotten where he had along his school books last Friday afternoon. His dark looks at Fan told that he suspected her of the worst.

And now—to have him come riding toward her.

Her eyes flinched away from his. Went out over the sea.

"Oh, Neil, don't be so earnest! I—I think heaps of you—you know that!" She tried to make her tone light.

Despite her objections, he drew her into his arms, his lips feeling her own.

A queer surge of emotions in Ardeeth's heart.

Now she knew why she did not want Neil to kiss her.

Instead of Neil's dark head, her fancy painted one of shining brown. . . . Instead of Neil's black eyes gazing ardently down into her own—eyes of blue—fighting blue—Ken Gleason's eyes.

The thought of Ken Gleason pushing in between them. . . . It had always been Ken Gleason who had spoiled Neil's kisses. . . .

Ardeeth hated Monday mornings—hated them with the hopeless rebellion which ugliness and discord could always rouse in her.

After the comparative leisure of Sunday, Mondays were feverish and tense.

The shrilling voice of the alarm clock stabbing through sleep. Aunt Stel's strident tones: "How many times have I got to tell you to get up? If you'd get in at a decent hour at night you wouldn't be so dog-tired next day."

Gray reality closing in on her bright dreams as Ardeeth lurched out of bed and groped sleepily-eyed for the underthings she had tossed at a chair the night before.

The rush for the bathroom. Grimy soap dissolving in a scummy

Fan—whining to wear her best shoes. "Aw, gee—why can't I? Huh, Mom? Mabel Snider wears hers all the time. An' we're goin' in Miss Bates' room for music today. Aw, gee—these ol' scuffed things—"

She kicked viciously at the offending shoes. Her aim was unfortunate and landed on Paul, who wheeled with a roar.

Aunt Stel put down the threatened riot by the simple expedient of raising her voice higher than their own.

"Shut up, you kids, or I'll give you something to-bellow for! Here comes Tom! Want he should hear you scampin'?" He'll knock your heads off."

The car took his place at the table amid sullen silence. Conversation became laconic, punctuated by dark looks.

"More Coffee, Mom." "Butter!" "Goin' t' keep the sugar all day? Give somebody else a chance, an' tcher?"

Harsh. . . . Ungracious. . . . Ardeeth felt her heart shrink within her.

Tom was gone, shoving back his chair with a grunt. His mother picked up the soiled napkin which dropped from his lap. She hustled the others, cracking the verbal whip over them even as Simon Legree had lashed the slaves. With the last one out of the house she would be able to shove back the soiled dishes, plant her fat elbows on the table and lose herself in the daily beauty hints of the newspaper.

FIVE SKELETONS OF SUPER-MEN ARE UNEARTHED

to dig. We met unexpected difficulties in excavating, the hard packed ground resisting the shovels and picks.

We will always remember Dr. Cummings' exclamation of joy when he found the skeleton of the youth, as a later examination proved it to be. While not conclusive in itself, Dr. Cummings and Professor San Domingo agreed that finding of the skeleton of a young man in his teens who had attained a height of six feet, eight inches, was an indication of what we may expect when the adult skeletons are reached.

The three skeletons found by Coker, those of a man and two women, all were more than eight feet tall, and we are confident of finding many more.

Irrespective of the success of our search for skeletons, Dr. Cummings said the discovery of the ash-filled jars and other potteries was of first importance. The jars contained what had been human ashes and were an entirely unexpected find. The jars themselves, of beautiful design and workmanship, were at least 2,000 years old and possibly more, Dr. Cummings said.

The significance of human ashes buried with the skeletons thus far has puzzled the scientists. One theory was that they may be the key to a strange religious rite practiced by these long dead people. No one yet knows the mental plane reached by the people, but judging from the pottery and trinkets already found it is believed they were in no sense savages.

Although our progress so far has been slow and painful, the scientists believe we are on the right track at last and that our goal is in sight. It was decided to work at night as much as possible to protect ourselves from the Indians. We all take turns working in relays—it is 36 hours now that we have been digging steadily—and while a force is awake there is less chance of a foray by the savages.

We are, of course, entering what to the Yaquis is a sacred place—a burial ground. They are superstitious in the extreme and regard trespassers with jealousy. Miners looking for the rich gold ores reported hidden in this great region can testify to that.

Our discovery of the bones extends one of the richest archaeological treasures on the continent from Arizona and New Mexico across the border into Sonora, Mexico. In it have been found many invaluable specimens of scientific interest, but we believe our present quest will prove the greatest of all.

A RADIO FOR EACH MEMBER OF FAMILY

At last the problem of differing radio tastes in the family group has been solved.

Thanks to midget radios, which have been the sensation of the industry this year, many families are installing personal radios for those who are partial to their own particular kind of entertainment. Now father can listen to a political speech or minstrel men, if he wishes, while mother is soothed by the strains of a Victor Herbert melody, and daughter enjoys the latest jazz.

Tiny receivers are being installed in bedrooms, kitchens, dining rooms—in fact in every room of the house. More than one person has told me how he enjoys being lulled to sleep by soft music. "Singing in the bathtub" to the accompaniment of the radio threatens to become a national custom. Radio is now found upstairs and down in the modern home.

Prices Are Low

Low prices due to engineering improvements and increased efficiency in manufacture have helped bring about this new state of affairs. Midget radios have made it possible to purchase several receivers for the cost of a single radio a few years ago. In fact a good midget set may now be bought for the price of a reliable watch.

I suppose the time will come when we shall each have to have engraved name plates on our personal radios. When we go to bed we will take our radio with us and plug it in at the bedside. It will put us to sleep at night and wake us up in the morning. Even when we travel it will be our constant companion.

Our radios are true friends giving us comfort and companionship in the quiet hours of our lives—and they have the unique advantage over human friends—we can turn them off or on at will.

GIRL UNAFRAID

BY GLADYS JOHNSON

ARDETH CARROLL works in a shop and is being wooed by Neil Burke. Her home life is far from pleasant. She lives with an aunt and a snoring girl cousin. Riding with Neil, Ardeth is thrilled by the flattering gaze of a handsome man accompanying the wealthy Cecil Parker.

CHAPTER III.

"I don't care how sore you get at me if you leave him alone! I'd like to punch his nose! Looking at you—as if he was going to eat you up!" Her heart gave a joyous and guilty leap. He had been interested, then! Even Neil had noticed—

"And you—trying to catch his eye—and then wanting me to believe you haven't seen him." "I haven't!" she spoke severely to drown the pounding of her heart. "I was just—just surprised because I knew a girl in that group. Jeanette Parker. She comes into the store all the time and I wait on her. That blonde girl that was beside—beside—him—that was Cecil Parker, Jeanette's sister. I've seen her picture in the Sunday society section heaps of times—"

But Neil was tortured with jealousy and he was not to be won over. He drove in glum silence and Ardeth became busy with her own thoughts.

One Saturday afternoon three years ago she had driven down to Palo Alto with Neil to see a football game between the colleges. A spectacular touchdown by Ken Gleason, Stanford senior, had been the outstanding event of the day.

Ardeth had been carried away by the novelty and the excitement of it all. Jim Carroll's own daughter, she had delighted in the speed and dash. She had gone mad with the rooting section when it spelled out "Ken" Gleason's name. She had glowed with excited pride and had ended by making Neil violently jealous.

But it had gone deeper than hysteria with Ardeth. Something about the young collegiate there had been which had called to her ardent imagination. She had watched him, her heart swelling with strange pride. Even now she remembered how he flung off his helmet and sailed into the game, brown hair streaming wildly about his head. The action had been somehow endearing.

The next day, she had hunted for a report of the game in the sporting section. There it was, under shrieking headlines. A picture of Ken Gleason, too. He was grinning and his handsome laughing eyes plucked into her own. She had cut out the picture and kept it hidden in her handkerchief box. She had dreamed of him in secret.

And now—to have him come riding toward her through the sunhine. . . . And the way he had looked at her. . . . perhaps he had seen her that day long ago.

He was older, of course. Twenty-four, perhaps. But there was the same careless charm about him, the same easy grin. "Mooning about him this very minute! Go on, tell me you're not! Tell me I'm crazy!" Neil's black eyes were blazing. His mouth was tortured.

The wildness of him struck a little spark of fear in the girl, but she looked at him with cool insolence. "I'm not mooning about him! But I fail to see how it concerns you! You don't own me or my thoughts! And you have no right!"

"For God's sake, don't keep saying that!" he got out between his teeth. "Driving me crazy, you are! You know I love you! You're my girl—you know you are!"

Her eyes blazed in her crimson face. "Stop the car! I'm going to get out! I didn't come out to quarrel!" Then something of the black misery in his eyes reached her. The natural sweetness of her nature asserted itself. "Oh, let's not quarrel, Neil!" She placed a small hand over his own where it gripped the wheel. "It's such a beautiful day. Look at the ocean—isn't it blue?"

They followed a road south of the city. A road which swooped and dipped like the sea-gulls above them. A glorious day—white-crested combers rolling in on an ocean of purple-blue.

They left the car at the edge of the road and walked into the sand dunes. In a little sun-warmed trough between two mounds of sand they rested. Ardeth pulled off the tight brown hat and the wind blew her hair in shining threads over her forehead.

Neil watched her with deep eyes. Suddenly he leaned forward, drew her hair back with a rough forefinger. "Ardeth—you love me, don't you?" His voice was hoarse with feeling. "Say you do, Ardeth—I'm just crazy over you!"

And now—to have him come riding toward her.

Her eyes flinched away from his. Went out over the sea. "Oh, Neil—don't be so earnest! I—I think heaps of you—you know that!" She tried to make her tone light.

Despite her objections, he drew her into his arms, his lips feeling her own.

A queer surge of emotions in Ardeth's heart. Now she knew why she did not want Neil to kiss her.

Instead of Neil's dark head, her fancy painted one of shining brown. . . . Instead of Neil's black eyes gazing ardently down into her own—eyes of blue—fighting blue. . . . Ken Gleason's eyes.

The thought of Ken Gleason pushing in between them. . . . It had always been Ken Gleason who had spoiled Neil's kisses. . . .

Ardeth hated Monday mornings—hated them with the hopeless rebellion which ugliness and discord could always arouse in her.

After the comparative leisure of Sunday, Mondays were feverish and tense.

The shrilling voice of the alarm clock stabbed through sleep. Aunt Stel's strident tones: "How many times have I got to tell you to get up? If you'd get in at a decent hour at night you wouldn't be so dog-tired next day."

Gray reality closing in on her bright dreams as Ardeth lurched out of bed and groined sleepily eyed for the underthings she had tossed at a chair the night before.

The rush for the bathroom. Grimy soap dissolving in a scummy pool—Ugh! Someone had left the cap off the tube of toothpaste again and it had hardened to something akin to cement.

Discord. There was always discord on Monday morning. "Bet! You've been wearing my stockings again!"

"Well, for gosh sakes, don't have a fit about it! I didn't have a clean pair yesterday, and I couldn't go barefoot, could I?" "But it's the second time! And they were for my new shoes!"

"Oh, don't be so stingy! When Mama lets you live here with us so cheap, the least you could do is loosen up now and then—"

"You girls stop your fightin' an' get out here to your breakfast. Think I can wait all day—"

Out into the cluttered kitchen, where gray fog pressed against the grimy window panes. Torn oilcloth on the table. Bacon, rapidly congealing to grease on a cold plate. The air blue with the acrid smell of burnt toast and the butter melted to a salty paste to make it spread.

Paul had forgotten where he had slung his school books last Friday afternoon. His dark looks at Fan told that he suspected her of the worst.

The three skeletons found by Coker, those of a man and two women, all were more than eight feet tall, and we are confident of finding many more.

Irrespective of the success of our search for skeletons, Dr. Cummings said the discovery of the ash-filled jars and other potteries was of first importance. The jars contained what had been human ashes and were an entirely unexpected find. The jars themselves, of beautiful design and workmanship, were at least 2,000 years old and possibly more, Dr. Cummings said.

The significance of human ashes buried with the skeletons thus far has puzzled the scientists. One theory was that they may be the key to a strange religious rite practiced by these long dead people. No one yet knows the mental plane reached by the people, but judging from the pottery and trinkets already found it is believed they were in no sense savages.

Although our progress so far has been slow and painful, the scientists believe we are on the right track at last and that our goal is in sight. It was decided to work at night as much as possible to protect ourselves from the Indians. We all take turns working in relays—it is 36 hours now that we have been digging steadily—and while a force is awake, there is less chance of a foray by the savages.

We are, of course, entering what to the Yaquis is a sacred place—a burial ground. They are superstitious in the extreme and regard trespassers with jealousy. Miners looking for the rich gold ores reported hidden in this great region can testify to that.

Our discovery of the bones extends one of the richest archaeological treasures on the continent from Arizona and New Mexico across the border into Sonora, Mexico. In it have been found many invaluable specimens of scientific interest, but we believe our present quest will prove the greatest of all.

"More Coffee, Mom." "Butter!" "Goin' to keep the sugar all day? Give somebody else a chance, can'tcher?"

Harsh. . . . Unguarded. . . . Ardeth felt her heart shrink within her.

Tom was gone, shoving back his chair with a grunt. His mother picked up the soiled napkin which dropped from his lap. She hustled the others, cracking the verbal whip over them even as Simon Legree had lashed the slaves. With the last one out of the house she would be able to shove back the soiled dishes, plant her fat elbows on the table and lose herself in the daily beauty hints of the newspaper.

FIVE SKELETONS OF SUPER-MEN ARE UNEARTHED

To dig. We met unexpected difficulties in excavating, the hard packed ground resisting the shovels and picks. We will always remember Dr. Cummings' exclamation of joy when he found the skeleton of the youth, as a while not conclusive in itself, Dr. Cummings and Professor San Domingo agreed that finding of the skeleton of a young man in his teens who had attained a height of six feet, eight inches, was an indication of what we may expect when the adult skeletons are reached.

The three skeletons found by Coker, those of a man and two women, all were more than eight feet tall, and we are confident of finding many more.

Irrespective of the success of our search for skeletons, Dr. Cummings said the discovery of the ash-filled jars and other potteries was of first importance. Radio Chats
By Royal Crookes, Jr.

A RADIO FOR EACH MEMBER OF FAMILY

At last the problem of differing radio tastes in the family group has been solved. Thanks to midget radios, which have been the sensation of the industry this year, many families are installing personal radios for those who are partial to their own particular kind of entertainment. Now father can listen to a political speech or minstrel men, if he wishes, while mother is soothed by the strains of a Victor Herbert melody, and daughter enjoys the latest jazz.

Tiny receivers are being installed in bedrooms, kitchens, dining rooms—in fact in every room of the house. More than one person has told me how he enjoys being lulled to sleep by soft music. "Singing in the bathtub" to the accompaniment of the radio threatens to become a national custom. Radio is now found upstairs and down in the modern home.

Prices Are Low
Low prices due to engineering improvements and increased efficiency in manufacture have helped bring about this new state of affairs. Midget radios have made it possible to purchase several receivers for the cost of a single radio a few years ago. In fact a good midget set may now be bought for the price of a reliable watch.

I suppose the time will come when we shall each have to have engraved name plates on our personal radios. When we go to bed we will take our radio with us and plug it in at the bedside. It will put us to sleep at night and wake us up in the morning. Even when we travel it will be our constant companion.

Our radios are true friends giving us comfort and companionship in the quiet hours of our lives—and they have the unique advantage over human friends—we can turn them off or on at will.
